ROSADALIS

THE INGREDIENTS THAT COMPOSE ROSADALIS are published on every package, therefore it is not a secret preparation, consequently

PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT

It is a certain cure for Scrofula, Syphilis in all its forms, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Liver Complaint and all diseases of the Blood.

ONE BOTTLE OF ROSADALIS will do more good than ten bottles of the Syrups of Sarsaparilla.

THE UNDERSIGNED PHYSICIANS

have used Rosadalis in their practice for the past three years and freely endorse it as a reliable Alterative and Blood Purifier.

A Dialectic Excuse for a Good Man.

BY "JOHN PAUL".

It's Deacon Brown yer askin' about?
He hain't been round for a year;
They planted him last cabbage time,
Which is why he isn't here.
Fur pr'aps ye've observed as a gin'ral thing
Thet this ly'n' under ground
Fur a year or two don't make one feel
Pretty much like sloshin' round.

His kerricter, eh? What, old Deacon Brown?
Well, I'm rather shamed to say
Thet he wan't much the sort o' saint
Sot up by Harte and Hay.
He never cussed in his nat'ral life—
I mention this with consarn—
He didn't know how, though he might a known
Ef he hed cared ter larn.

But it makes it rough for the chap thet gets
The writin' of his blog.
To hev to confess he's a slingin' ink
Over sich a bump on a log,
Who didn't amount to shucks in a row,
Who never war out on a tear,
And for tacklin' a neat little game of "draw,"
Couldn't tell a "full" from a pair.

Fur the deacon just war a common cuss
O' the most ornariest kind,
Who never looked out o' the windows o' sin,
And dursn't raise a blind.
Ye've no idee how parvarse he was;
I've hearn him remark—this limb—
Thet though he were raised in a Christian land,
One wife war enough for him.

His canal boat onc't—it was years ago,
When drivers both druv and steered—
Run agin the bank jest above Penn Yan,
And some o' the help got skeer'd;
The pilot sot in the injin room,
And he helt his nozzle and swore,
And the deac spread hisself at the gang plank
A handin' the ladies ashore.

P'raps the deac, if he'd had the rearin' as some,
Would a planned out better thet trip;
But, considerin' of his broughtens up,
He didn't quite lose his grip.
Unfortinit like for the deac an' me
He'd careful raisin' to hum;
An' you can't 'spect much of a chap, ye know,
Unless he spreads from a stum.

Or the rough of a mining camp,
With a bushel of sin in his kerricter,
An' a touch of Sairey Gamp,
Or an injineer or an Injun thar—
Any kind of a rum-h'isting lout—
Per'aps he'd a done some pretty big thing
For me to be splargin' about.

But he just plugged on in his no 'count way,
A leadin' a good squar life,
Till the war kom on—then he pulled up stakes
An' sed good-by ter his wife
I've hearn tell a gritter man nor him
In battle never trod,
An' he didn't let down in the race of death,
Although he believed in a God.

It's queer how he fout at Fredricksburg—
The deac lest went in wet,
A pray'n an' shoot'n, an' every time
A fotchin' his man, you bet;
Yet he wan't sustained by the soothin' thought,
When he fell—October 'leventh—
Thet he'd knock'd spots out the commandments,
An' been special rough on the seventh.

Just over beyont thet turnip-patch,
Some twenty holes yer kin see
Thet air filled by chaps who went from here
To fight 'gin Gineral Lee.
They went from here 'bout plantin' time,
They kem back when corn was ripe,
An' we buried them by thet walnut tree—
All chaps of the deacon's stripe.

We'll cross over thar to the old man's grave,
An' I guess I'll be gittin' then—
Yer pardin, stranger, I allars unroof
At the grave o' that sort o' men.
I've been gassin' away promiscus like
But now I make bold ter say,
It don't foller on a man's a sneak
'Cause he lives in a decent way.

I know some folks reck'n contrary-wise,
An' sling their ink quite free;
But they hain't got hold the right end on it,
Accordin' to my idee.
An' that's why I've sort a been a chipp'n in,
A pleadin' the deacon's excuse,
Fur ye know we all can't be gamblers and thieves
An' all women needn't be loose.

SELECT MISCELLANY.

ALADDIN; OR, THE WONDERFUL LAMP.

BY A. M. GRISWOLD.

Aladdin was an Arabian knight, who reached a high degree, although nothing but the son of a poor tailor originally.

Aladdin was one of the most careless good-for-nothing boys I ever knew. He wouldn't learn a trade, unless it was to trade jack-knives, but loitered away the most of his time on the street. His father worked himself up so because he couldn't make his son work, that he died in a fit—the only fit as his customers said, that ever came out of his shop. Then Aladdin became more indolent than ever. Yet, as showing the enduring love of a mother, although he nearly bored the life out of her, she continued to board him.

One day a traveling magician came along and "showed in their town.— He saw Aladdin, took a liking to him as suited to his purpose, and offered to take him traveling with him, and if he wanted to become a magician, he would learn him how to "magish." This just suited Aladdin, who always wanted to go with a circus; so he went.

They left town that night on foot (as magicians are often compelled to do when business is bad), and proceeded in the direction of the next town, where, as the magician said, they were holding a fair, and a show would pay, he had worked the fairs, and knew.

But instead of going there he led Aladdin into a deep valley. Arrived at a certain rock, the magician, by some magic spell (for he was a capital speller) opened a great hole in the ground as readily as though he had been an earthquake, much to the surprise and alarm of Aladdin. Then the magician, facetiously remarking that it was a fine opening for a young man, ordered Aladdin to descend and bring him a certain lamp he would find there, threatening the direst penalties if he failed to comply.

"Now, see here, old man," said Aladdin, "fun is fun, and I like fun as well as anybody, but aint this running it into the ground?"

There being no help for it, he descended first receiving the magician's magic ring, together with instructions. But wasn't it cruel to take A-ladd-in so?

It was a magic cavern, of course, and filled with fruits and vegetables of the finest gold, as they always are. He saw more gold "turnips" than a watch factory could turn out in ten years; carrots two hundred and fifty carats fine; gold cabbages that have been made on the National Treasury; and diamond squashes worth money enough to squash all the indictments found by our united grand juries. When he saw an orchard hanging full of golden apples, he exclaimed: "Here's just old fruit," and filled his pockets with them.

Finding the lamp, he returned to the entrance of the cavern, and asked the magician to help him out.

"Not till you give me the lamp," was the reply.

"Then you won't get it," retorted Aladdin, who feared some trick, which so enraged the man of magic that he threw down the stone which closed the cavern, shutting the poor boy in. He took on, of course, as any other boy naturally would under the circumstances, weeping and rubbing his hands, but in doing so he rubbed the magic ring, when an immense Genie appeared.

"Who are you?" said Aladdin.

"I am Slave of the Ring," replied the Genie.

"What Ring? Whisky Ring?"

This rather offended the Genie, who was a prohibitionist, and one of the most reputable Genie under ground. But he explained that he was compelled to do whatever the possessor of the ring required, subject only to the Constitution of the United States.

"Then get me out of this," said Aladdin, "and take me home." which the Genie did in less time than it takes to write these lines, set up the type, print the paper and put up the mails. He was hungry, and his mother had nothing in the house to eat. "But here is the lamp you brought home," said she. "I will clean it, and perhaps it will bring something." It did. It brought another member of the Genie family, as she rubbed it, who announced himself as "Slave of the lamp," and said he followed the business of waiting on anybody who possessed it. What did they wish?

"Dinners for two!" shouted Aladdin, as though he was in a cheap restaurant, with unbounded credit. "And mind you, give us plenty of fresh vegetables—green corn if you have it."

In an instant a banquet was set before them of the richest description and on plates of gold. From that time they boarded entirely in this manner, Aladdin disposing of the gold plate at a pawnbroker's, and playing the money at keno.

He just kept that Genie humping. Probably no Genie that ever lived was so overwhelmed as this one was. He would not be home in his cavern an hour any time a day before Aladdin would rub the lamp for something, when Mr. Genie had to git, muttering as he did so, "Ay, there's the rub!" Besides bringing meals to his room (for which he would not even have the privilege of charging him extra,) he had to fetch his morning cocktail and black his boots. What a degradation for a born Genie-us!

At length Aladdin aspired to marry the Sultan's daughter, who was very beautiful. His mother endeavored to dissuade him from it. She reminded him that he was only the son of a poor tailor, and advised him to be content with some respectable seamstress. But he insisted, and actually induced the old lady to go to the Sultan and demand his daughter's hand in marriage for her son, which was very insulting to the Sultan.

Gold and diamonds did the business ways will until two do yet and alchange in valuations; and Aladdin married the princess. He built her a magnificent palace in one night— or his Genie did—on a vacant lot owned by her father, that he had a frontage of 100 feet on the principal street, and was 150 feet deep. (The Sultan had refused $200 a front for the lot, repeatedly.) And then they proceeded to live hapily.

But one day a circus came to town, and, connected with one of the sideshows was the wicked magician. He saw the palace, heard that it was built up in one night by Alladdin, and divined the truth at once. The Gen's Slave of the Lamp must have been a boss carpenter! He devised a plan for obtaining the lamp. He got some bran new ones and went to the palace when Aladdin was away crying, "Old lamps for new," when one of the kind girls traded off the magic lamp, ignorant of its value as of everything else. Having thus made Aladdin a lamp-lighter (than he was,) the magician, assisted by Genie, transported the palace, together with the princess to the heart, of Africa—one of the most remarkable examples of riches taking wings that has ever fallen under my observation.

Aladdin searched high and low (to say nothing of Jack and the game) for his missing wife and real estate, and in sheer desperation he at length joined an expedition about to penetrate the interior of Africa in search of Dr. Livingston. He didn't find the doctor, but he did find his palace. He communicated secretly with his wife. She drugged the Magician's "bitters" one night and got possession of the lamp for Aladdin, and by its means the palace was transported back to Arabia, though it probably was no more transported than Mr. and Mrs. Aladdin were at getting home.

All lived happily after that, except the wicked magician, who, as a punishment for his eccentricities, was compelled to be confined at hard labor all his life as a comic writer.

A Remarkable Scene.

A Charlton, Worcester county, Mass, correspondent of the "Boston Journal," writes of date June 13th: Last evening we were treated to a rare atmospheric phenomenon. About five o'clock dark clouds suddenly gathered and an occasional rumbling of thunder was heard. This continued until about seven o'clock, when it seemed as if this elevated section of country had become the center around which the lightnings danced fantastically. At one time the writer noticed a stream of forked lightning start at west-southwest, moving along the horizon and ending about north-west. It was just before sunset, the sun shining brilliantly through the thin filaments of clouds in the west, and the west and north, far into the east, were brilliantly illuminated by what seemed to be one grand blaze of fire. In the east was also seen, set off more vividly by the black clouds behind, the foot of the rainbow, surrounded by innumerable smaller ones of tints somewhat lighter than the central one. In the meantime the air seemed to be heavily charged with electricity, imparting that peculiar sensation to the body which one feels after having been submitted to a shock of electricity. Yesterday morning was fair and bright, and the atmosphere exceedingly bracing, but at noon it had become very sultry, the heat scarcely endurable, which continued until about four o'clock, when the first premonitions of the storm were noticed. Charlton, it will be remembered, is the highest elevation of land between Boston and Springfield, on the Boston and Albany railroad.

BEWARE!

THE INDEPENDENT PRESS.

Personal Rule in Pennsylvania must cease—The People determined to overthrow the Cameron Faction—The last days of the Winnebagoes.

We subjoin a number of extracts from the independent Republican press of Pennsylvania, together with remarks of other independent Republican journals, upon the situation in this State. The extracts need no comment here. They speak for themselves:

"CAN'T SEE IT."

[From the Lawrence Journal (Rep).]

If "the way to victory is plain" with the State Ticket, we wish Mr. F. would point it out, as we "can't see it."

MUST BE OVERTHROWN.

The Chester County Journal, published at Downingtown, reprints Col. Forney's recent editorial, and says "the Cameron Despotism, must be overthrown or the State is doubtful."

WHAT THEY ARE AIMING AT.

[From the Lawrence Journal (Rep.)

Senator Cameron, it is reported, on the 5th inst, was in Philadelphia pushing his son Don as a compromise candidate for Vice President. To us it really appears that the Cameron faction are determined to defeat the re-election of Gen. Grant.

"THAT ENTHUSIASM,"

[From the Philadelphia Inquirer of Monday.]

The State nominations at Harrisburg have not been accepted with that enthusiasm and unanimity which are generally regarded as necessary to insure success.

MUST BE DENOUNCED.

[From the Lancaster Enterprise (Rep).]

Should no change take place in the Ring ticket, Pennsylvania is lost to the Republicans in October. Whether justly or not, the suspicions surrounding Hartranft, and the known unfitness of Allen, make success with them an impossibility, unless a change is made. All that is left to us, then, is to work for Grant, and keep his skirts clear of Ring complications.

A SMALL NUMBER.

[From the Huntingdon Globe.]

Our State ticket is not all that it should be, but unless public sentiment changes very materially from what it has done, we may elect our whole ticket by a small majority.— There is no denying the fact that a widespread and deep seated dislike to some portions of the ticket prevails. But a small number have as yet expressed a determination not to support it.

IN VAIN.

[From the Lancaster Express, Republican.]

The mere statement of the facts is enough, and until they can be disproved, all the arguments of interested partisans in favor of Gen. Hartranft's official integrity and purity will be in vain with me possessed of ordinary sense and intelligence, unless it can be shown that he is so unsophisticated, simple and stupid as not to be responsible for his actions, which we do not believe.

SENSIBLE GRANT CLUB.

[From the Lancaster Enterprise.]

The Grant Club of this city must be governed by sound sense and good judgment, if we may credit the statement that they refused to act upon a motion to add "Hartranft" to the name of the organization, so as to make it the Grant and Hartranft Club. If they are truly Grant's friends they had better refrain from committing him to the ring nominations. If it were believed that the influence of the Administration would be actively used in favor of the Harrisburg ticket, we should stead or defeats in Pennsylvania in- touch that patch.

WAR TO THE KNIFE.

[From the Evening Star (Ind.) of June 7.]

The Pennsylvania delegation were extremely bitter on Colonel Forney yesterday, especially those who were with the Cameron faction. They asserted that Forney would support Greeley—and they hoped he would. Russell Errett, chairman of the State Central Committee, was especially severe. He said that the party did not care a button (he used a curser word than that) for Forney: that the day for conciliating him had passed, and he would get nothing now but "war to the knife."

We cannot approve of carrying concealed deadly weapons weapons as a general thing, but in view of Mr. Errett's threat it would be prudent for Colonel Forney to go well armed hereafter.

NOMINATE A MAN.

[From the Lehighton News (Ind).]

The Democratic State Convention has nominated Charles R. Buckalew for Governor of Pennsylvania. He is a very strong man, perhaps no abler one could be named as their standard bearer. He will receive the votes of all honest Republicans and will carry this State with one of the old fashioned Democratic majorities, if the Republicans don't withdraw Hartranft from their ticket and nominate A MAN for the Governorship of this Commonwealth. Mr. Buckalew has always been known for his abhorrence of fraud and corruption, and his opponents cannot point to a single fraudulent act of his during his political career. Not so with the other nominee. With such a prodigious opponent the General stands no chance of being elected.

ALLEGHANY COUNTY.

[From the Pittsburgh Leader.]

Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad. They are trying to wake up a red-hot enthusiasm in Philadelphia in connection with the National Convention. And what with Hartranft clubs, Hartranft wigwams, Hartranft speeches, Hartranft lager beer, they may excite a furor which will make it impossible for the party to withdraw this fore-doomed candidate at all, as it will have to do to win the State election. It is reported this morning that "Philadelphia will give Hartranft an overwhelming majority." May be she will (though we doubt it), but Alleghany county will go for Buckalew if Hartranft be not withdrawn! And there will be a good many more counties side with Alleghany than with Philadelphia on this question.

THE FOLLY OF THE HARRISBURG NOMINATIONS.

[From the Fulton Republican.]

Immediately after the Harrisburg Convention which nominated Hartranft for Governor at least three fourths of the Republican journals of the State protested against the manner in which his nomination was brought about, and looked upon his nomination as a calamity to the party in the State. A few absolutely refused to raise his name to the masthead, and the rest did it under protest. It was thought time would heal up the difficulties, but as the election nears us, and the Democracy grows stronger, we realize only the folly of the Harrisburg nominations. The leading papers of the State demand the calling of another convention and the nomination of a popular candidate by the people; and we take the liberty of saying that the warnings of the press are not to be disregarded. They are the reflection of public opinion.

WHO CONTROLLED THE STATE CONVENTION.

The Bucks County Intelligencer, though still upholding the State ticket, says:

Colonel Forney's article in The Press of last Wednesday awakened a violent commotion among the politicians. Many of those who confessed that it was a true picture of the political situation in Pennsylvania were not ready to sustain the declaration that General Hartranft must retire from the canvass in order to secure a Republican victory in October. There is a very prevalent feeling, which has been freely expressed since the convention, that that body was the creature of a few unscrupulous and selfish men, to whose objects it was completely subservient. These men did not control a majority of the delegates, but they obtained possession of the organization, and by a bold disregard of common decency, as well as of parliamentary rules, succeeded in dictating the action. * * * Nothing but the voluntary act of General Hartranft can now change the situation, and those who know him feel convinced he will do nothing of the kind. * * * * * *

ALMOST HOPELESS.

[From the Wayne Citizen (Rep).]

The nomination of Buckalew makes it more than ever necessary to reconstruct the Republican ticket. Did the contest lie between Hartranft and Cass, the former might be successful; but as against Buckalew his chance is admitted, by those best acquainted with the situation, to be almost hopeless. The difference between the two parties, politically, is trifling compared with the difference between the candidates in point of character. In this matter the Republican party suffers under a most humiliating disadvantage. Though the number of Republicans who will vote for Buckalew may not be large, those who will not vote for Hartranft may be reckoned by thousands. Our majority in the Sate last year was some fifteen thousand. But we must poll a still larger vote this year, if we would be successful. Unless we do this, the voice given to Packer in 1869 will this year suffice to elect Buckalew by a majority of nearly two thousand. And unless we poll a larger vote than was cast for Geary in 1869, the vote for Seymour in 1868 will be sufficient to carry Buckalew into office by a majority of nearly twenty-three thousand. In short, Hartranft may be defeated although he receives a larger vote than Geary, and though Buckalew falls twenty thousand behind Seymour. Such a consideration should lead the Republican party to reflect seriously on its present precarious position.

AN OUTSIDE OPINION.

[From the Boston Journal.]

In Pennsylvania there is an unfortunate division of feeling among the Republicans in regard to their State ticket. The difficulty will probably be compromised before October. If it is not, and if the Republican vote suffers in consequence to any perceptible degree, there will be no mistaking the cause of it, and no injury will be imposed by it upon the Presidential ticket in November.

A BIG JOB.

The World has news that the Radicals of Pennsylvania, or the Cameron men, are going to crush Mr. Forney and The Press, because he does not cordially support Hartranft. It is the largest job that Simon Cameron has yet undertaken, the crushing of a newspaper so well established as The Press. And it would be a sorry day for Pennsylvania if Cameron should have supreme control.—Hartford Courant.

ON THE BRINK.

The Boston Advertiser (Rep) says: The situation of the Republican party of Pennsylvania is more unfortunate and perilous than any other State of the Union. A ring of worthless plunderers appears to rule it at Hartranft for Governor of General State Convention was accomplished in the face of the protests of all the more honorable leaders of the party, in contempt of the better sentiment of the people, and in defiance of the conditions of success. The Republicans who care something for the honor and good name of the party, as an organization to advance patriotic and beneficient public interests, went home from the convention with a sorrow akin to that which weighed down the sincere men in the Cincinnati Convention after the nomination of Greeley. They look upon the nomination of Hartranft as a disgrace to the party and utterly refuse to conspire, by advocating his election, to bring shame upon the State. The prestige and prospects of the party are blighted by this act. For many years Pennsylvania politics have been of a low order.

The rivalry of clans and factions has been as bitter as in New York, and has reduced the working force of both parties to the lowest point. Unfortunately this year the Republicans have sunk lower than ever before, while the Democrats show a disposition to improvement. In each faction of the Republican party there are men who can in an emergency command the support of all factions, but Hartranft is not one of them, nor are his associates on the ticket men whose character and ability counterbalance his weakness. The ticket is ominous of disaster. Colonel Forney, writing over his own initials declares that "it is folly, and worse than folly, to suppose that the Republican State ticket can be elected as it stands." But thus far all efforts to induce the retirement of Hartranft have been in vain. To make the matter worse, the Democratic party appear to have escaped for once from the besetting stupidity which has so often permitted the Republicans to profit by their mistakes. Their convention of last week was one of the strongest of recent years. It appreciated fully the opportunity of the situation. As much as possible controversial dogmas were ignored, and the issue was made up on the personal character of candidates.

General Sherman at Moscow.

On the 18th ult., General Sherman and party arrived in the city of Moscow, after a period of ten day's travel by rail across the Russian steppes. Arriving at the ancient capital of the empire, which is not inappropriately termed the Manchester of Russia, a cordial welcome was accorded them by Prince Dolgoruky, the Governor of the Province. Sherman, who was on his way to St. Petersburg, here learned that the Emperor was about to leave the capital for the Crimea, and as the General's stay is limited, it was feared that he might have to leave without an opportunity of meeting the Autocrat of all the Russias. The tact of Mr. Schuyler, the American Charge d' Affairs the good offices of Prince Dolgoruky, and the courtesy of the Emperor himself, solved the difficulty. The emperial programme was changed by the Emperor who prolonged his stay at Moscow some minutes longer than contemplated in order to give an informal reception to General Sherman. The Czar, on being presented to Old Tecumseh by Minister Curtin, greeted him with a hearty shake of the hand, which was in marked contrast to the coolness with which he subsequently received Lieutenant Grant. After the reception, which took place in the railroad depot, was over. His Majesty lingered a few moments on the platform and had a word to say to his many distinguished subjects who had gathered to do their sovereign honor, after which he entered the car and proceeded on his journey to join the Empress in Crimea. The correspondent of the New York Herald accompanying the Americans refers to the coolness of the Emperors reception of Lieutenant Grant, and argues from it that Alexis' reception in Washington by the President is not yet forgotten by the emperial master of Russia.

EXTRAORDINARY ROBBERY.

An Editor Steals His Own Babe—Uses Bad Language—Makes Bloody Threats, and Flees.

The McKean Miner, publishes the following: We have been given by a responsible citizen of Eldred township the particulars of a sad and exciting affair that happened in that township on Monday of this week. The most prominent actor in the tragedy is M. E. B. Haines, editor of the Scio Express, whom many of our readers remember as the gentleman so anxious to start a Democratic paper here last fall. It seems that Mr. H. has not for some time lived very happily in his domestic relations, and his wife, having left his bed and board, was living (with a babe between three and four months old) with her father and mother in Eldred, while her husband was shoving the quill editorial in Scio. But the paternal instinct in the bosom of Haines was stronger than the connubial, and though he could live without his wife, he must have the babe. He therefore, in the absence of Mr. Blackman (his father-in-law) steals away from his editorial labors, takes the cars to Olean, and with a hired horse and buggy starts for Eldred, bent upon the capture of the child. The fates were propitious. No one was at home except Mrs. Blackman and Mrs. Haines, and the babe was sleeping sweetly in the cradle. He snatches up the child, and pacifying its mother with the soothing words, "damn you, say a word and I'll shoot you down!" rushes out, lays the babe in the bottom of the buggy, and fled with his prize. Passing the school house where his sister-in-law was teaching, and seeing her standing in the door, he informed her he had got the baby, and pointing a pistol at her said "damn you, come near me if you dare!" When he passed the house of C. B. Stull he again made the announcement, "I have got the baby." This latter gentleman, in company with some of the neighbors, have gone to Scio with the intention of recovering this little waif from the paternal grasp of the fighting editor of the Scio Express.

☞ Toothache proceeds from ague in the face, operating upon the exposed nerve of a decayed tooth. Every Experience.

If immediate attention were paid to the first invasion of the throat and lungs by disease, there would be comparatively few deaths from consumption, whilst, as it is now, and the health records confirm us in the truth of what we write, nine out of ten of those who die prematurely die of some disease of the lungs—not consumption perhaps, at first, but gradually proceeds to that stage, when it becomes as fixed as fate, and as fatal as the cholera. DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is infallible in all such cases. It hinders the tuberculous deposits from settling in the lungs, and even if they have began to form mucleus, DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE dissolves and dissipates them and carries them out of the system as so many noxious elements which have no business to be there. —The blood is restored by DR. KEYS- plastic power, wh to a newness of reparation, it distributes to every part, making the wheels of life to run with smoothness and regularity, and according to every function the duties which nature has assigned it. DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE $1.50 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $7.50 Dr. Keyser's private office for lung examinations, 167 Liberty street Pittsburgh, every day, except Sunday and Tuesday, from 10 A. M. until 1 P. M., and from 3 until 6 P. M.

☞ The system frequently gets out of order and should be at once regulated, else other troubles will ensue; when physic is needed take Parsons' Purgative Pills; they are a safe, wholesome, and natural medicine.

A Brute Properly Punished.

On the morning of the 11th, at Plymouth, Indiana, a Mr. Baker, who drives a sprinkler, while getting his water at a hydrant, near the Pittsburgh and Fort Wayne Railroad noticed a man loafing around one of the warehouses in the vicinity. Baker had driven about a block away, when, hearing cries, looked back, and beheld the man carrying a little girl under the warehouse. Mr. Baker requested a by-stander to hold his horse, seized his whip and rushed down and beheld the brute in the act of outraging the girl. Baker brought the butt end of the whip down on the man's head, stunning him. The girl, whose name is Locke, and about ten years of age, was sent home. Mr. Baker waited until the fellow returned to conciousnes, cowhided him until there was not a sound piece of flesh on his body, and let him go. The brute, who gives his name as English, was arrested a few hours afterwards, and lodged in jail to await his examination, no bail being accepted.

Great Rain Storm in Austria.

A storm of rain, such as Europe rarely experiences, has visited the nortwestern portion of the Austrian Empire with disastrous effect. For three days the rain decended more in the form of water-spouts than as we are accustomed to consider it, and whole districts, giving promise of a speedy and abundant harvest, were covered with water and ruined; while in Raumania and some other parts harvests are suffering equally, but more slowly, by continued drouths and scorching sun. In some places in the valleys the tops of trees just peeped out, and in Bohemia people went over their farms in boats, though less serious damage was done there than in other places. Railroad communications were interrupted, and the Western Railroad, which after a long period of almost hopeless struggling for financial soundness, had arisen to a prosperous condition, was almost destroyed, the railway dyke being washed away, and what remained rendered unfit for use. Other lines fared little better, and a number of lives were lost in fruitless efforts to stay the flood. The Bohemian Capital was visited as well as the rest, but the presence of a large military garison, however, enabled the authorities to lend a helping hand. By this sudden calamity thousands were rendered homeless and houseless, and bereft of all their goods, while hundreds lost their lives in defence of their property.

☞ Farmers and "Horse Men" are continually inquiring what we know of the utility of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, and in reply, we would say, through the columns of the ARGUS that we have heard from hundreds who have used them with gratifying results; that is also our experience.

The Beaver Argus.

J. WEYAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Beaver, Pa., June 26th, 1872.

THE Philadelphia Press (Forney's paper) says that Russell Errett, the chairman of the Republican State Committee, concedes, in private conversation, that the Cameron-Mackey-Treasury Ring State ticket will be overwhelmingly defeated at the October election.

THE Cincinnati newspapers are largely occupied with the settlement of two disturbing questions. One is, why Judge Stanley Matthews should suddenly have been retained by the Administration officers with a $10,000 fee in a Government case after his declaration that he purposed supporting Grant instead of Greeley if he should become the nominee of the Liberal Republican Convention, and did not regard the Tariff question as of importance enough to cause any division. The other is, whether it is true that Mr. Settle, the President of the late Philadelphia Convention, was there only paying for the extraordinary privilege he received of representing the United States Government as Minister to Peru without going from North Carolina, drawing $10,000 therefore, and conducting his North Carolina business without interruption. The Commercial seems to consider both of these among those things which no fellow can understand.

IF there is a man living who thoroughly understands American politics and the wants of the American people, that man is Horace Greeley. He has had every opportunity to acquire this knowledge, and these opportunities have been improved to the utmost. In a government deriving its powers from the consent of the governed, and whose foreign and domestic policies receive their shape and color from the popular will, journalism furnishes the very best political school. The successful conductor of a great newspaper must necessarily possess not merely an accurate comprehension of the workings of the governmental machine in the past, and thereby obtain a clear and vivid conception of its merits and deficiencies but he must live—so to speak-with his finger on the popular pulse, and catch from thence those premonitions which betoken the coming of events whose direction are to be controlled by prompt and judicious statesmanship. It is from his observations and suggestions that statesmen derive most of their ideas, and not unfrequently the measures which change the fate of nations. The diplomacy which brings peace at home and respect abroad, originate not in cabinets or congresses, but in some humble editorial room, where the inmate surveys the horizon with impartial eye, and points out the path of safety and of duty. It is the press which makes and unmakes Presidents, which sets up and pulls down administrations, which dispenses deserved praise and distributes merited punishment; and he who can properly wield this gigantic engine, must have the most valuable of those qualities which enter into the composition of an able ruler.

None but a first-class intellect could gain and hold the rank which Mr. Greeley occupies in the journalistic profession; and to the ample brain with which nature has endowed him, are added [illegible] long experience and acute observation. It has been his business, as well as his pleasure, to study closely the shifting phases of national affairs during the last forty years; and a disciplined judgment, backed by an honest purpose, has enabled him to look below the surface of things and grasp the causes where others saw only the effects. He has been as ready to rebuke the blunders and crimes of the Republicans as of that of the Democratic party; and, whatever differences may exist as to the correctness of his views, the bitterest enemy will not deny that they have been dictated by conscientious conviction, and advocated with a zeal which springs alone from patriotic impulses.

Mr. Greeley is now, and always has been, both by association and natural sympathy, very close to the masses of his countrymen. He has investigated their condition, political and social, more critically than any man of his day; he requires no enlightenment concerning their needs, no encouragement to see that those needs are so far as practicable supplied. He will bring to the presidential chair—should he be elected—a ripened wisdom, an incorruptible integrity, an ardent love of republican institutions and principles, and a generous ambition to earn the gratitude of a free and intelligent people by faithfully and honorably discharging every duty imposed on him. Nor will these duties be embarrassed by intrigues for a second term, and thus the most dangerous temptation to misrule which can beset an executive is avoided in advance.

With the above qualifications, the course of Mr. Greeley—if elected—may be easily predicted. Honest and honorable himself, he will select honest and honorable men as his counsellors; and no considerations of private feeling or political expediency will induce him to prostitute the public service to personal aggrandizement, or reward partisan services regardless of the necessary qualifications. Loving the whole Union, and not a part of it; regarding the Northern and Southern people as members of the same family, and entitled to the same rights he will, by his influence and example, remove the last vestiges of the rebellion, and give us once more a united and happy country.

Administering equal and exact justice to all, granting exclusive privileges to none; fighting corruption whenever and wherever it shows its head; recognizing and respecting the superiority of civil to military authority, and opposing that tendency to centralization which has lately grown to an alarming extent, the nation under his guidance will go back to the solid foundation, and learn again the lessons of liberty regulated by law which Jefferson taught. A lust for new territory will not lead him to insult weak nationalities, ignorance or contempt of international usage will not induce him to make the republic the butt of England and the laughing stock of Europe. He will ask for nothing which is not right, submit to nothing which is wrong. A horde of hungry relations will not draw sustenance from the public, and officers of the army will not be detailed for service at the White House; bribes, in the shape of presents will not be accepted as a part of the perquisites of the chief magistracy, and the first office in the gift of the people will not be used as a huckster's stall for the emolument of the temporary occupant. Horace Greeley is pledged by his record, by his character, by every thing which constitutes his manhood, to make a President worthy of the name.

LET us suppose that the following notice appeared in the ARGUS of Feb. 7th, 1872:

> The evidence—circumstantial and direct—seems to be conclusive that a fellow at New-Brighton, named Bill Smithers, is a rascal of the vilest kind. He has been holding some little official position for some time past, and there remains no doubt but that he has been using it, not for the purpose of benefiting the public, but almost solely to fleece the tax payers and enrich himself and his cronies. Numerous other misdemeanors are laid to his charge. We have known Bill, by reputation, quite well for a number of years back, and we have no doubt but that all the ugly things that are said about him are strictly true; and, were we a resident of New Brighton or vicinity, we would train our chickens to roost high, and at the same time not forget ourselves to keep a tight grip on our pocket-book whenever Bill came within reach. To make a long story short, he ought to be in the penitentiary; and made to suffer in the flesh for the many corrupt practices and moral delinquencies charged up against him.

But Bill is sharp, plausible, and has abundant means at command. He uses his wits and money to avoid arrest, bestows presents upon men of influence, is an active man in his party, knows how to run politics and in his turn becomes a candidate for office, succeeds in getting the nomination, whereupon the ARGUS is expected to come out in this style:

> It affords us no little degree of satisfaction to announce to our readers that the Hon. William Smithers has succeeded in obtaining the nomination of our party for the office of State Senator. This is one of the very best nominations that could be made. Mr. Smither's ability, integrity and moral fitness are well-known to be of the very highest order. He should not only be cordially supported by every Republican in the county, but we are inclined to think the Democracy ought to go for him too. Hurrah, then, for the Hon. William Smithers! and the man who hurrahs for any one else, or doubts anything we may say in the future in his behalf, can have "a head put on" himself by hailing us on the street, or calling at the ARGUS office at any hour between sun-up and sun down, Sundays excepted.

Of course, the above is all suppositious, but how far short of the reality would it come if the advice of a large number was heeded? For months past the ARGUS, and nearly all the other papers of the State, have had matter in their columns all going to show that General Hartranft was a regular Bill Smithers in his official transactions as Auditor General. Now, however, he happens to be the Republican nominee for Governor, and because some of us decline to throw up our hats and make asses of ourselves by declaring him to be a paragon of honesty, &c., we are accused of "treachery toward the ticket." Not only are politicians engaged in making charges of this kind, but ministers of the gospel are helping it along. God pity such duty teachers as these—they need reconstruction themselves far worse than do those for whom they pretend to labor.

THE Electoral vote has been printed from time to time in the papers, but it has generally been incorrect, because it has not included the supplemental apportionment provided for by the last bill for that purpose. The following table is accurate, containing the additional delegates to represent the Congressmen-at-large, given to a few of the Eastern States for their fractions:

Maine	7	Kentucky	12
New Hampshire	5	Tennessee	11
Vermont	5	Indiana	15
Massachusetts	13	Illinois	21
Rhode Island	4	Missouri	15
Connecticut	6	Arkansas	6
New York	35	Michigan	11
New Jersey	9	Florida	[illegible]
Pennsylvania	[illegible]	[illegible]	11
Maryland	8	Wisconsin	10
Virginia	11	California	6
North Carolina	11	Minnesota	5
South Carolina	8	Oregon	3
Georgia	11	Kansas	5
Alabama	10	West Virginia	5
Mississippi	8	Nevada	3
Louisiana	8	Nebraska	3
Ohio	22
Total			367

It will be seen that the total electoral vote is 367. Under the Constitution a majority of all is required for a choice. This will be 184.

A. MORNEY BATES, U. S. Attorney for Utah, is now in Washington city consulting in regard to Mormon matters. He has drawn a Grand Jury composed of six Saints and six Gentiles who will present six test cases against Mormons for polygamy under the law of 1862. The cases are to be tried in accordance with the last decision of the Supreme Court, and the object of the trial is to have a final decision from this court upon the several cases under United States law brought up in a regular way.—The District Attorney says plural marriages are decreasing rapidly, and if the Supreme Court decides against the Mormons in the cases to be presented, they will give up polygamy.

IN regard to American indirect claims a Geneva special dated June 22d says the question has been definitely settled, and in a manner unexpected by the members of the Court. The American agent and counsel having been instructed to declare that the United States did not seek a money award for indirect losses, but only desired the settlement of the principle, Lord Tenterden, on the part of his Goverument, called attention to the article of the treaty which gives the arbitrators only authority to consider claims in relation to money award, and submits that since the United States declared they did not seek money award for these classes of claims, they could not properly be entertained by the Court. The American counsel thereupon demanded judgment on this issue by the Court. The court took time for its decision, but is known to have decided against the admissibility of the indirect claims. This judgment will be delivered, it is said, when the Court meets on Wednesday, the 29th inst., and is reported to be acceptable to both Governments.

ONE of the strongest of the Administration office-holders at Washington, last week, made an estimate of Horace Greeley before the Baltimore Convention. The fact is the more noteworthy because the officer is one of the shrewdest observers of political events, and one whose judgment as to the future is received with respect everywhere. He says that he has little doubt that Mr. Greeley will have 517 delegates out of the 724 on the first ballot, and that of the delegates already chosen by the several States 317 are favorable to Greeley and only 13 against him; these being from Oregon, Delaware, and one from West Virginia. He also says there is a powerful effort making on the part of some of the old Hunkers of the Democracy to defeat Greeley before the Convention by a "coup de etat," and circulars in great numbers have been confidentially sent abroad for that purpose. The scheme as developed is to secure the States of Arkansas, Georgia, Ohio, Illinois, Texas and New Jersey which, it is held, would do much toward controlling the Convention. The office-holder, however, unhesitatingly admits that Mr. Greeley will be nominated, and that the contest in November will be a very close one.

A RELIABLE report comes to us that a large body of Indians have started for the Texas frontier, determined upon commencing a general Indian war. Already two fights have taken place between their advance and the whites, in which four of the latter were killed.

We are thus seeing the same programme carried out by the savages that has been the rule for years. It seems that the only thing left for the Government is to send such a force against the incorrigible Indians as will entirely defeat them, and then to put them upon their reservation and keep them there by actual force. There is no truth in these Indians.—they will fool the Government, and make every kind of promise when taken at disadvantage, but on the first chance they will rob and kill the very people that have spared them.

The Peace Commissioners, the Friends, and all the disinterested and honest men who have been trying to christianize the Indians cannot deal with these troubles. In their place must be sent the army. There is no other way, and the sooner it is adopted the sooner we will stop the murdering of useful and valuable citizens.

—During a recent trial at Rockport, Illinois, Judge Laird interrupted the testimony of a lady witness remarking that it was not relevant. The Lady raised her head, and with a look made of injured innocence, inquired: "Well, sir, am I telling this story, or you?" The Judge allowed her to talk as long as she wanted to.

—Well, of many and of various libel suits have we heard, but never before have we read of a libel suit brought by one man against nineteen of his fellow creatures! In Howell Co., Mo., in July, 1870, a meeting was held which passed resolutions denouncing Col. Monks and his friends as "a law defying clique." Stung to madness by this action, the Colonel has sued the nineteen who voted for the resolution; and what is more, has laid his damages in the sweet little sum of Sixty-five Thousand Dollars. If he should recover, the nineteen can hold hold another meeting and take up a contribution.

—In The Elmira Daily Gazette we read of the dreadful effects of the Philadelphia "enthusiasm" upon a delegate by the name of Bridgman. This gentleman, who is the editor of The Penn Yan Express, from the time of his reaching Philadelphia until the moment of his departure, shouted, bawled, yelled, and roared for Grant. Now and then he stopped to eat, or to drink something, after which his shrieks were more piercing and his loyalty more thunderous. One effect of this was, that when he arrived at Elmira he could not speak above a whisper; his hands were blistered four blisters deep; his nails were all knocked off, and each thumb was worn off up to the first joint. All the hair was singed from his head by the fervent heat within, and "one eye was closed out of respect for the loss his hair." "Certainly," says The Gazette "a more frightful demonstration of the terrible effects of 'enthusiasm' could not be imagined." Commenting upon this physical and psychological exhibition, The Gazette says: "We think Bridgman will get a Post Office." What does this mysterious and occult suggestion mean?

—An Austrian is said to have discovered, by means of a microscope, in a stone taken from the pyramid of Dashour, many interesting particulars connected with the life of the ancient Egyptians. The brick itself is made of the mud of the Nile, chopped straw and sand, thus confirming what the Bible and Herodotus have handed down to us as to the Egyptian method of brickmaking. Besides these materials, the microscope has brought other things to light—the debris of river shells, of fish and of insects; seeds of wild and cultivated flowers, of corn and barley, the field pea and the common flax, cultivated probably for both food and textile purposes, and the radish, with many others known to science.

As it happened, the body of a Christian child which had been missing since the previous day was washed up by the sea. A report was at once spread that its jugular vein had been divided, and the excitement among the Greeks soon manifested itself. The Jews wherever met were ill treated, and two of them were murdered.—The victims were old women, and are said to have defended themselves with much bravery. It was not until the garrison of the town—three hundred strong and other forces had been called out that the riots were put down.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Senator McClure Opens the Greeley Campaign in the North—A Significant Speech.

MANSFIELD, Tioga county, Pa., June 20—Senator McClure dropped in upon us yesterday, and delivered the annual address before the Annual Association of the State Normal School last evening to a very large audience. His subject was "Our Teachers" This morning he visited the Soldier's Orphan' School, and addressed the pupils, with Representative Mitchell. A joint committee of Republicans and Democrats urged him to deliver a political address, and he finally consented to speak this afternoon. Business was generally suspended, and nearly the whole community, of both sexes, met in the Town Hall this hot afternoon and heard an address of over an hour in length, with profound attention.

He spoke very dispassionately, but positively of the demoralization resulting from unwise and selfish personal rule in the State and nation, and urged that party lines be disregarded to maintain the manhood of the citizens and the supremacy of the civil authority under all circumstances. He did not name any State candidates, but urged that no party prejudices should make Republicans vote against those candidates who are honest and competent, and have honest surroundings and associations. Professor Allen, founder of the State Normal School, Judge Humphries, Colonel Johnson, ex-Representative Elliot, and many others of the leading Republicans of this vicinity, participated in the meeting and are working actively for Greeley.

The War-horse Cameron.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinati Comercial says: Poor old Simon Cameron has also shaken the dust of Washington from his feet, and, nursing his foxy nature goes back to Pennsylvania. Cameron was ruined when he was made chairman of the Foreign Relations committee in place of Mr. Sumner; without the single [illegible] intelligence with respect even to our own country, to say nothing of foreign countries; without the least understanding of what the "term international law" means; with ignorance of geography, knowing nothing of diplomacy, destitute of any appreciation of the value of history and precedents, with no skill in anything save the manipulation of party politics, and he brought to his new duties the intelligence only which taught that he was in every respect unfit for the place. The main duties of the chairman of Foreign Relations have, therefore, fallen on the second member of the committee, Mr. Harlan, who has managed them without complaint from any source. Cameron himself has been absent much of the time during the past session. The fact is Cameron is too old to perform the active duties of a senator. His strength as a politician is daily failing, and were it not for the ½ doz. bottles of champagne which he daily drinks, his doctors say he would decline rapidly. His age now is very near seventy-four, and there are but few men who have attained his years who have had such a restless, laborious busy life as his. Repose he has never known. Whether controlling a newspaper managing a bank, superintending a railroad, running a convention, governing the politics of the state, or a public officer, his life has been one of unceasing care and anxiety. He has now formally given out the word that he will no longer be a candidate for public office, and when Cameron says this he means more than the vice-president does by his words.

The attitude of politics in Pennsylvania and the disorganization of the republican party there are due to him more than any other cause. He has lost his skill in managing, and the result of the October election in that state will show that when he wrought the nomination of Hartranft he struck a more serious blow to the administration than any of its enemies could have struck. His term of service in the senate expires with the time of the present administration, March 4, 1872.

Forney on the Situation in Pennsylvania.

The Philadelphia Press, which supports Grant and Wilson, but repudiates Hartranft and Allen, contains the following in its issue of last week:

Our only danger, and the only element that bodes Grant and Wilson evil in November, is about fifteen hundred corrupt politicians, all told. These are threatening the independent and honest Republicans, who have resolved to defeat a part of the State Ticket with the defeat of Grant if they do not bow to their dictation and acquiesce in the selection of the men they have chosen to rule over this grand old commonwealth and control its finances.

The threats of these men would be impotent and meaningless but for the fact that the entire machinery of our politics is in their hands, and the knowledge we have that they will hesitate at nothing to accomplish their base ends. They are acquainted with the Tweed-like methods of defeating popular will by ballot-box stuffing and repeating, and they have a long purse and a flexible concience. They openly boast upon the streets that they will count in their man if the majority against him be not too great. If, as we expect, in the event that they do not yield to the demand of the people and remodel their ticket, the seal of condemnation is set upon them by an overwhelming majority, they say they will retaliate upon the independent Republicans, who have never faltered in their devotion to the party and who are true to Grant, but who will no longer submit to the rule of crime and incompetency, by voting for Greeley and counting him in in November. This is their programme, and a nicely-laid, clever scheme it is, and worthy of the men.

But will it win? Will the people of Pennsylvania, upon whose rights and independence these men have been yearly encroaching until they think that the Republican voters of the state are but slaves to do their bidding and ratify their will, allow these unscrupulous and corrupt tricksters to succeed? We think not. We know they recognize the great disgrace and danger of continuing the rule of the men who are attempting to rear a Tammany Hall in Philadelphia. They are faithful, both to their country and their party, and they realize that the men who are engaged in this plot are a danger to the one and a disgrace to the other.

A VESSEL ABANDONED.

A Remarakble Voyage—Praise Worthy Conduct of the Captain of the Norwegian Bark Aristides.

Norwegian Bark Aristides, Olsen, from Barrow, arrived June 16 at New York, and anchored on the Bar, and the next morning made the following report: Took the northern passage and had fine weather; has been nineteen days west of the Banks. June 5, latitude 42 35, longitune 60 30, fell in with the Norwegian brig John Anderson, from Philadelphia for Stettin, in a sinking condition; took off the captain, his wife and nine men, and brought them to this port. Captain Anderson made the following report:

Left Philadelphia may 24 with a cargo of 2036 barrels of petroleum; had fine weather up to June 2 in lat. 29 50, long. 65 55, when I discovered the vessel had sprung a leak. I placed six men at the pumps, but found the leak increasing. I then put all hands to work at the pumps, and continued pumping night and day until the morning of the 5th; at 6 a. m., lat. 42 25, long. 60 30, I sounded the pumps and found sixteen feet of water. The men being completely exhausted from steady pumping, and seeing the water gaining on them, refused to stay by the vessel any longer. I saw there was no possibility of saving the vessel. I came to the conclusion to abandon her. I at once got one of the boats out and placed my wife and five men in it, and made her fast astern of the vessel. I kept four men on board with myself. The vessel at the time was steering N. by E. At 5 p. m. the Norwegian Bark Aristides, Captain Olsen, from Barrow for New York, hove in sight; seeing our signals of distress he bore down to us and took myself, wife and crew, eleven all told, on board his vessel and brought us to this port. I wish to return my sincere thanks, on behalf of myself and crew, to Captain Olsen and crew for the kind manner in which they treated us while on board their vessel.

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF A WIFE.

A Man Chains His Wife to a Heavy Weight—A New Method of Curing Intemperance—Burns Her Mouth with a Poker to Prevent Her Putting the Intoxicating Cup to Her Lips.

Last night one of the mayor's patrol had his attention drawn to a bareheaded, lightly draped woman, who had a heavy chain padlocked to her neck, and a large metal weight, weighing fully thirty pounds, attached thereto. Thinking she was an escaped lunatic, he at once took her into custody and lodged her in the lock-up. She gave her name as Eliza Martin, and stated, while they were relieving her of her bonds, that the chain and weight had been placed on her by her husband, and that his cruel treatment to her had been such that she left home with the intention of drowning herself. She was met on Market street by a couple of young men, who dissuaded her from the rash act, and she was, when captured, wandering about the steets in an almost exhausted condition. This morning Mayor Blackmore instituted an investigation, and there she informed him that her husband's name is Arthur Martin; that he had been in the habit of treating her in the way that was seen the night before. She also said that on last Friday he had deliberately heated a poker red-hot, and burned her with it, and that his object in doing so was to prevent her from drinking liquor. The woman's appearance was miserable in the extreme, and if her statements are correct, we have here a sample of cruelty in our midst hardly second to that practiced by the most savage barbarians.

Martin was arrested this morning at the instance of Chief-of-police Irwin, who made an information charging him with assault and battery. A Leader reporter visited him in cell No. 6 at the lock-up, to see what manner of man it was that could chain his wife and abuse her as he is alleged to have done. We found him to be rather a large, respectable looking individual, of probably fifty years of age, and giving no outward signs of being such a brute as was supposed. He, in short, looks like a sober, well-to-do drayman—that is, we understand his business—and one not likely, so far as we could judge, to be guilty of the conduct presumed against him. But, nevertheless, appearances in this instance were deceptive.

His statement is briefly this. He is a drayman for S. P. Shriver & Co., and with his earnings supports a family including himself, wife and eight children at his house on Seventh avenue near the foot of Prospect street. For a long time back Mrs. Martin has been so addicted to drinking that she has not only been perfectly useless in taking care of her children, but has made away with considerable of his money and brought reproach on his good name. In order to stop this he concluded to take the law into his own hands, and in order to do so effectively purchased a chain and secured her to a bed every morning before going to his labors. It did not appear to work well, however, for nearly every time she managed to break away, and would be absent when he returned to dinner—in short, would not be at home again until he would send the children skirmishing around the neighborhood for her, when she was generally picked up in some out-of-the-way place in an intoxicated condition. He had applied this treatment for several days back—we don't know how long, and he will not state the length of time. But last evening she broke loose and was locked up. He says the injury on her mouth was occasioned by a fall; though in relation to his burning her on the mouth with a poker he is reticent.

A hearing was given the prisoner this morning and the information having been read to him, he acknowledged he had chained her and detailed the reason he had for doing so as given above. He attempted to justify himself because of the trouble the intemperate habits of his wife had given him, and described at some length how she stole money from his clothes wherewith to satisfy her cravings for liquor. No longer ago than Monday he says he missed a ten dollar note from his pocket-book. When asked whether he had burned her mouth with a poker, he equivocated and said he did not remember of having done so. The mayor held him in $1,000 bail to answer a charge of aggravated assault and battery, and at last accounts he was in search of the requisite bondsman.

The chain with which he secured her is heavy enough to hold a dozen women. It is just long enough when doubled, as he was in the habit of rigging it, and being attached to her neck, and the weight to hold her in a very uncomfortable stooping posture while sitting down. The outrage in thus binding her was one that not even the serious cause which he alleges can excuse, and it is more than likely that justice will make such an example of him that similar inclined individuals will adopt some other method of family discipline.

A Terrible Wreck on the Coast of Labrador.

The following details have been received of the loss of the sea-fishing vessel Huntsman, with forty-five men, on the coast of Labrador, April 28th:

A tremendous gale set in from the north-east, and the field-ice was quickly broken up into floes, and formed into one of those drifting "packs" that are so dangerous. Scores of huge ice-bergs were also moving about, rending the field-ice with their blows, as if with the hammer of Thor, and dashing against each in wild commotion. The fierce nor'easter was pressing the ice upon the land, and under the lee of the vessel, grim and frowning, were the savage shores of Labrador. The only chance of the Huntsman lay in battling her way through this pack near the shore, so as to reach the more solid ice at some distance, where she might find a harbor of refuge. For a time she fought her way bravely dodging the onsets of the floes, escaping marvelously the crush of the meeting icebergs, and seemed to have a charmed life. But before she could clear the dreadful pack of ice monsters that were roaring around, night came down, dark as pitch, and the storm seemed to increase with the night. Blinding snow-drifts swept along the sky—the freezing spray fell upon the deck—the wind howled aloft, the noise of the crashing floes was awful. The ill-fated Huntsman was now at the mercy of the waves, and in the grim darkness nothing could be done to avoid peril. About 9 o'clock a tremendous sea struck her, hurling her bodily on Fish Rock, where she began immediately to break up. Three of the crew leaped overboard, hoping to escape, just as she was about to strike, but the poor fellows were struck by a floe and killed in a moment. The remaining fifty-nine men took to the rigging, as the sea was breaking over the ship; but they were only a few minutes there when the masts went overboard hurling the whole of them into the seething chaldron. Forty-five of them sank to rise no more, or were crushed amid the floating ice-masses, the Captain and his son among the number. Seventeen managed to scramble upon the ice, but in most pitiable plight; some had both arms broken, some broken legs and ribs. Only three escaped uninjured. What an awful situation for human beings! Lying maimed on the ice, writhing in agony, the sea drenching them, the fierce nor'easter chilling them, darkness around, the blows of the frost giants resounding on all sides and making night hideous. At any moment the ice on which they lay might be rent in pieces, and they buried into the boiling surges. No wonder they almost envied the fate of their comrades, now at peace beneath the waves. When morning at length broke, after the dreary hours of that terrible night, they saw a vessel at some distance with the auspicious name of Rescue. The poor fellows managed to crawl along the ice, aiding one another as best they could, the sound men half carrying the others with broken limbs, and so they passed over nearly a mile of broken ice, and at length got on board the Rescue, more dead than alive. One of the saddest features in this case is that the whole of the men who perished belonged to one little fishing village, called Bay Roberts, which is now litterally a "place of weeping," for there is hardly a family but has lost a connection or member.

The Democratic Bugbear—What is it?

From the Hartford Post (Ind.).

The great, and indeed almost the only argument for the re-election of President Grant is that his defeat will be the defeat of the Republican party and the restoration of the Democrats to power. There are some [illegible] who are engrossed with that view of it. They wring their hands over it. And they want everybody to vote for Grant and say no more about it, because if they don't there's danger of the dreadful Democrats coming back and electing James Buchanan or James K. Polk, or some such dead person. Well, we hope we have a proper horror of a Democrat, that we appreciate the pure cussedness of the creature, and have an adequate conception of the dreadfulness of his possible return. But let us turn over the possibilities of the case a little. Buchanan is dead to begin with. So also, are James K. Polk and Franklin Pierce, and a good many others. Let's not be afraid of them any more. We have had a sort of idea that the Rebellion had been put down and the war ended; that the Union and its authority had been restored in all the States, Slavery abolished, and the freedmen given the ballot and made citizens. Do you suppose there's any danger of the re-establishment of Slavery? or of the disfranchisement of the blacks? or of a new rebellion being started by the men who worried through four years and failed in the one they made such long and careful preparatian for? If you do, by all means vote to perpetuate military government and continue the rule of the carpet-bagger and thief in the South, till the country lies desolate and the danger disappears. Would it be a calamity to have Cameron displaced for a man like Buckalew, or Chandler for a sober gentleman, or Pomeroy for an honest man, or Howe for a statesman? Or would it be disastrous to the country if such men as Ben Butler, and Farnsworth, and the gang of railroad congressmen should be omitted from a congress and their places occupied by different—they could hardly be other than better—men?

Greeley is Running in Spite of the Newspapers.

From Brook's N. Y. Express.

A morning journal, anti-Greeley, has quoted, and is yet quoting, many, nay, very many, Democratic journals, that oppose Greeley's nomination at Baltimore; but the compilers thereof do not seem to comprehend this fact, that Greeley is running, in spite of the newspapers, as well as the politicians. All, or nearly all, the old Republican politicians in Cincinnati opposed Greeley, and were for Adams and others; but out from the hopper, enthusiastically, too, came Horace Greeley. The fact is, the people have got it into their heads that Greeley is their man, their candidate, and the opposition of the newspapers, and of some public men, too, but stimulates their zeal. Once in every ten or twenty years the people break loose on the Presidency, and they are running loose now; and we do not see how we can make them, either as Democrats or Republicans run with "the machine" unless "the machine" runs with them. The more time Democrats have had to think of Greeley, the more they are running for him, as we see and hear from all the Democratic conventions, save that in little Deleware. It is not only a spontaneous outburst, as in Tennessee and New-York, but a conclusion—a logical conclusion—as in Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Wisconsin, Missouri; nay, everywhere, except Deleware.

Fight Between a Man and a Hyena.

The Indian papers publish the following account: "A party of six natives coming toward Deyra through Mohun Pass were attacked by a hyena; it made straight at one of them, and flew at his throat. The poor fellow stretched out his hand to keep off his assailant, on which the hyena bit them severely; his companions, instead of coming to his aid, took refuge in some adjoining trees. The man, finding himself thus deserted, and his hands in a mutilated state, pluckily turned on his enemy, and seized his nose with his teeth, roaring out in the best way he could for assistance. By this means he secured the animal, and his companions, taking courage, came down from their secure position, and belabored the brute to death with sticks. I saw the unfortunate man at the dispensary, where he had gone to have his wounds dressed, and was shown the head of his enemy having his teeth marks on the nose. I believe this is almost unprecedent instance in the annals of natural history, as a hyena is well known as a cowardly brute, never venturing to attack man, but preying chiefly on dogs, carrion, and young children.

MISS NELLIE GRANT.

Correspondence Between Her and Queen Victoria.

The San Francisco Chronicle has received through private sources a letter written by Miss Nellie Grant to Queen Victoria, previous to her recent visit to Windsor Palace. Its charming simplicity and thorough good sense, if it be authentic, put beyond question all doubts as to the nature of the visit and the feeling which prompted it. It reads as follows:

LANGLEY'S HOTEL, May, 1872.

My Dear Lady and Queen:—I am embarrassed at the honor of an official request, given through a high officer (your Lord Chamberlin, I think), to be presented to your Majesty. I should dearly love to see you, that I might tell my father and mother that I had thus been honored. I am but a simple American girl; that I am the President's daughter gives me no claim to your recognition as a sovereign. If, with the kind lady who is acting as my chaperon, I might visit you, I should be very glad. Our secretary of legation hints at some political significance in this opportunity. I cannot so interpret it, and would not wish to be so received, because it would not be right, as I am nothing in American politics, and I am sure father would not desire me to appear other than my simple and very humble self. If, with this explanation, your Majesty will allow me to visit you, I shall be greatly honored and be very proud.

I have written this note of my own motion, and because I think it the right thing to do. I am your Majesty's very obedient servant and admirer.

NELLIE GRANT.

The reply is equally refreshing, and betrays a spirit which does more honor to the British Queen than multitudes of other actions for which her subjects have loudly applauded her.

WINDSOR CASTLE.

Miss Nellie Grant:—I have instructed Lady —— to convey to you this note, and we shall receive you as the daughter of your honored parents, without the intervention of our high officers of State. I shall accept your visit as an "American girl," and there shall be no other significance in the fact than your kindly expressed desire to see the lady and not the sovereign. I shall find it pleasant to forget that I am Queen in receiving you to-morrow afternoon at our palace of Windsor.

VICTORIA.

☞There are ten papers published in Lancaster county, which is, perhaps, the most intelligent, reading, and Republican community in Pennsylvania. Of these ten papers six are Republican, three Democratic, and one Greeley. Of the six Republican papers only two support the candidates nominated at Harrisburg for Governor and Auditor General with any heartiness or strength. One, the Volks freund, German, prints the entire ticket, but has nothing to say in its favor. The three others, the Express, daily, and the Inquirer and Enterprise, weekly, oppose its election with all their ability.—Phila. Press.

☞In a little village in Vermont there lived a farmer named Ransom. They were not pious people—rather of the reprobate order in fact they never went to church. Once, however, the family were prevailed upon to attend preaching. When they made their reluctant and tardy appearance the services had begun, and they had hardly taken their seats when the preacher gave out the first hymn reading it somewhat thus: "Return, ye ransom sinners home." "All right," cried the head of the Ransoms, getting in a rage and clapping his hat on his head. "Come along, old woman and gals, we'll go home fast enough, and everybody in his old church knows we didn't want to come."

Borough Ordinance.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the borough of Beaver, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That on and after the 10th day of July, 1872, it shall not be lawful for the owner or owners of geese to permit the same to run at large within the limits of the borough of Beaver under a penalty of one dollar.

SEC. 2 That it shall be the duty of the High Constable of the borough aforesaid, and he is hereby authorized and required without any other warrant than that contained in this ordinance, to seize any geese found running at large within the limits aforesaid, and sell the same within six days thereafter at public sale, having first given notice of the time and place of sale, by at least three advertisements put up in the most public places in said borough, at least four days before the day of sale, and after making such sale said Constable shall deduct from the proceeds thereof the penalty imposed by the first section of this ordinance, together with all costs and charges attending the seizure, keeping and sale, and the balance if any he shall pay over to the owner or owners thereof upon demand made of him for the same. Provided, That if the owner shall prior to such sale, pay to said Constable the penalty imposed by the first section of this ordinance, together with all charges and expenses, then it shall be his duty to deliver the same to said owner.

SEC 3. That if any person shall willfully ride, drive, or lead any horse, mare, gelding or mule along any of the side walks or public foot walks in the borough of Beaver, they shall upon conviction pay a fine of not less than one or more than five dollars and costs, and in default of payment may be committed to the lock up for any period not exceeding forty-eight hours.

SEC. 4 It shall be the duty of the High Constable or of any duly appointed police officer of the borough aforesaid, upon their own view or upon notice given to them of the violation of the preceding section of this ordinance, and without any other warrant than is herein contained, to arrest and convey any person or persons so offending before the Burgess who shall, upon due proof of his or their guilt, impose the penalty prescribed by the preceding section

The English language consists of twenty-five thousand radical words, of which Shakespeare uses fifteen thousand; and it is the vernacular of seventy millions of human beings.

H. Noss takes pictures in all kinds of weather, but it is not so well to choose a day when the sun shines too bright. Come one come all. Broadway, New Brighton.

Flowers.—It may be laid down as a general principle that a larger proportion of white flowers are fragrant than those of any other color; yellow comes next, then red, and lastly, blue; after which, and in the same order, may be reckoned violet, green, orange, brown and black.

Gents Furnishing Goods, every variety, best and most Fashionable quality, always on hand at Bert & Walsh's, clothing house, Broadway, New Brighton.

Asparagus.—It is said by physicians that asparagus is very beneficial in cases of rheumatism and gout. Slight cases are cured in a few days by feeding on this delicious esculent, and more chronic cases are much relieved, especially if the patient carefully avoids all acids, whether in food or beverage.

Everybody goes to H. Noss, Photographer, Broadway, New Brighton. Get your pictures for the 4th of July.

Haden't it to Spare.—"I don't care much about the bugs," said a young man of emaciated appearance at a fashionable boarding house the other day, "but the fact is, madam, I haven't the blood to spare; you see that yourself."

A Farm for a Store.—A first-class Dry Goods and Grocery Store in a good location, near to the best markets in this county—now doing a good business—can be had for a good farm. Store and building valued at from $15,000 to $20,000. The best reasons given for wanting to exchange. Apply to or address Stevenson & Wittish, Beaver Falls, Pa. [je12;tf

Spectacles.—The latest dodge is spectacles with galvanic "fixings" at the ends of the side pieces, which are to send a current of electricity through the brain and nerves and all the rest of it. The man with the "eye cups" will please step aside and let the man with the electric spectacles come up. People who tamper with their eyes either by using things positively injurious or by employing useless appliances, and thus neglecting proper medical aid, are probably as abundant as ever.

A New Photograph Gallery has just been opened by J. Ubalto in D. Miller's New Brick, Bridgewater, with all the latest improvements in the art. Entire satisfaction rendered. je12;4w

Meadows.—The general impression is, that the most economical plan of farming, is to get the land in grass, whenever circumstances will admit, and to raise the smaller articles for market, in place of the cereals. This will depend on the facilities for marketing, and the capacity of the farmer to undertake a troublesome business—but under all circumstances on every farm ample provision should be made for a goodly sized hay crop. If you have a meadow and it is found to need renovation, as soon as your grass crop is secured, harrow it, and broadcast thereon a compost of 2 bushels bone dust, 5 do, ashes, and 1 of salt; let these remain in piles for two or three weeks before applying it. This will be found the cheapest and most permanent renovator you can apply.

Drowned.—Mr. William Harrager, of Scotch Hill, Clarion Co., and one of the most respectable citizens of that vicinity was drowned at Miller's Eddy, on the Clarion river, last Monday evening. It appears that he was thrown off a boat owned by himself, which he was trying to get loose from a raft on which it had been thrown in the gorge at the Eddy. The boat was swinging around when the oar in some manner knocked him overboard. He rose and tried to swim, but it was supposed he was hurt, and before assistance could reach him he sank. At last accounts his body had not been found. He leaves a wife and several children.

Castoria is a substitute for Castor Oil—a family physic which is pleasant to take and does not distress or gripe, but is sure to operate when all other remedies have failed. It is a purely vegetable preparation, containing neither Minerals, Morphine nor Alcohol, the result of fifteen years experimenting by Dr Samuel Pitcher. It is perfectly harmless and far more effective than Pills, Narcotic Syrups or Castor Oil. By soothing the system it produces natural sleep, and is particularly adapted to crying or teething children. It kills Worms, cures Stomach Ache, Constipation, Flatulency and Derangement of the Liver. No family can afford to be without this article. It costs but 50 cents—ask your druggist to get it for you and he will always keep it.

On and after the 1st of July, 1872, every person who sells or offers for sale manufactured tobacco, snuff or cigars, except importers of those articles who sell only their own products at the place of production, will be required to pay a special tax at the rate of five dollars per annum, without regard to the amount of his annual sales. The exemption of persons whose annual sales do not exceed $100 is repealed by the new law.

Mr. Seth C. M'Clure, long a resident of this county, but latterly residing at West Branch, Iowa, in renewing his subscription to the Argus a few days ago, sent along with the cash, the following lines, which we heartily appreciate:

I think the Argus is the best
And cheapest paper in the West;
Some articles in it appear
Worth the subscription a whole year;
Besides, the Argus in its turn,
Has thoughts that breathe and words that burn.

That's all I have to say about it;
I would not like to do with out it;
These are the thoughts, you may be sure,
Of your well wisher, Seth M'Clure.
Out of my name I left the "C,"
That rhyme and metre may agree.

A great many persons complain about corns and bunions, but never stop to inquire what causes them; now here we have it, nearly the whole cause is in not having Boots and Shoes that fit neatly. If you wish your feet free from them get your shoes of Umstead & Hartzog, who will guarantee a good fit. They have just received a nice assortment of Shoes, Gaiters and slippers, call and see them, Broadway, New Brighton. je5;tf

Charge it.—I rode to town the other day with Sam Stewer. He was in a "deuce of a hurry." He had sold a tub of butter to be delivered at the station that day, and he had a field ready to sow with wheat. He didn't know how to spare the time, but he "needed the money," and so harnessed his team to deliver the butter. This he did, got his cash, and, returning from the station, stopped at a store to get two pounds of tea, a pound of coffee, a pound of allspice, five pounds of sugar, and a gallon of molasses. He hustled them into the wagon, and, as he was untying the tie-strap, he shouted to the merchant, "Charge it."

After we had started home, I said, "Why did you not pay that bill? You had the money in your pocket."

"Yes; but you see I had got to buy some clover seed of Peter Juniper, who only deals in cash—don't give credit. Then I have got a bill to pay at the milliner's. My wife wants a new bonnet, so does daughter Sally, and last year's bill is not paid; and the women folks said they would not ask for any more credit there until it was, so I've got the fifteen or twenty dollars to pay up last year's bill, so they can get their head-gear. The fact is, Garrulous, I'm behind time all the while. These middlemen do take the life-blood out of us farmers."

"Bah!" said I. "That is all nonsense. There are two words, Stewer, that you should never speak to a man or woman of whom you make a purchase; nor should you allow any one to say them for you. If you will agree to do so, I will warrant that within two years you will be out of debt, a free, happy and independent man; and that what you buy will cost you from seven to fifteen per cent. less than it does now!"

"What words?"

"Never say 'charge it!' Never allow any one to say 'charge it.' The man who does it has to pay a good round per cent. for the use of the money he thus borrows—more than any farmer can afford to pay. I've tried it Stewer, and I know. You have often wondered how I always manage to have ready money. It is because I do not say 'charge it.' It is because I will not say 'charge it.' It is because I will not buy what I cannot pay cash for. And it is because when I do buy, I can get it cheaper than you can, because I do pay cash for it, and you say 'charge it.' That's what ails you, Stewer. And you'll always be a Stewer, and in a stew, a long as you say to anybody, 'charge it.'"—Rural New Yorker.

The Heated Season.—In accordance with a custom fixed as the laws of the Medes and Persians, denizens of the fashionable world of cities must migrate during the present and next month to the sea-shore, lakes, mountains, or some cool, picturesque and quiet place like Beaver borough, or be forever tabooed in polite society. The fortunate possessor of a "cottage by the sea" has little difficulty in complying with this inexorable mandate, but when business is dull and money scarce growlings are heard in unintelligible patois about stocks and gold markets and a financial crisis, all of which subterfuges are quietly ignored by the feminine portion of the community, who are busily engaged in the superintending of traveling toilettes and the packing of Saratoga trunks. About dresses and styles for sea-side and country wear what can one say? The watering place costumes will be gorgeous in the extreme; but, those ladies who go to quiet country places, like our pleasant borough, more for recreation and enjoyment than for show, will pay less attention to fashion in its more costly forms, and be satisfied with grenadine, victoria, lawn and other less expensive materials. The new fabric called "Batiste" is exceedingly fashionable this summer. It is very cool, thinner and more wiry than the ordinary linen. Suits made of this material are braided, embroidered and trimmed with insertions of edgings of black, white and unbleached lace. Amongst the toilettes shown us at one of our furnishing houses was a costume of ecru batiste. It has two box pleated frills on the skirt, headed by a bias fold and white guipure insertion. The overskirt has an apron tied back with bouffant back breadths. The edge is cut in large points and fringed, while perpendicular rows of insertion are down each breadth. The beautiful basque has a postillion and watteau trimming.

Couldn't see It.—The worthy pedagogue who "teaches the young idea how to shoot" in a neighboring district had occasion recently to correct a little boy named Johnny. Now Johnny had what is called the sulks because he was whipped, and in order to convince him he was justly punished, his teacher made the following argument:

"Now, Johnny, suppose you were riding a big horse to water, and had a keen switch in your hand, and all at once the horse were to stop and refuse to go farther, what would you do?"

John stifled up his sobs for a moment, and looking up through his tears, innocently replied, "I'd cluck to him sir."

"But, Johnny, suppose he wouldn't go for your clucking, what then?"

"I'd get down and lead him, sir."

"And what if he were obstinate, and would not let you lead him?"

"Why, I'd take off his bridle and turn him loose, and walk home, sir."

"You may go to your seat, Johnny."

Johnny could not be made to see the necessity of using the switch.

Frank Gray still cuts those fashionable suits at R. Steinfeld's.

Not so Bad.—Peter Cartwright, the reverend pioneer Methodist, used to be annoyed by a noisy but not over pious sister, who would get off on a high key every opportunity she got. At an animated class meeting one day the surcharged sister broke out with: "If I had one more feather in the wing of my faith I could fly away and be with the Saviour." "Stick in a feather, O Lord! and let her go," fervently responded Brother Cartwright.

New Goods constantly received Bert & Walsh's clothing house Broadway, New Bighton.

A Manly Answer.—All honor to the boy who cannot be laughed out of doing right. Four boys, pupils in a boarding-school, were engaged in a game of cards. The fifth was not standing looking on to see how the game would go, but was engaged in work of his own. It so happened that one of the players was called out.

"Come!" said the others to their companion. "It is too bad to have the game stop here in the middle. Come and take his place."

"I do not know one card from another."

"That makes no difference—we will teach you. Come, now; do not let our sport be spoiled."

The boy perceived that this was the decisive moment. Ah! just such are the critical points which are sometimes the turning-points in life. His resolution was immediately taken. He made no more excuses, but at once planted himself square on principle.

"My father does not wish me to play cards, and I shall not act contrary to his wishes."

This ended the matter. It established his position among his companions. It compelled their respect, and preserved him from temptation in the future.

Training Girls.—Training girls for household duties ought to be considered as necessary as instruction in reading, writing and arithmetic, and quite as universal. We are in our houses more than half of our existence, and it is the household surroundings which affect most largely the happiness or misery of domestic life. If the wife knows how to "keep house," if she understands how to "set a table," if she has learned how things ought to be cooked, how beds should be made, how carpets should be swept, how the furniture should be dusted, how the clothing should be repaired, and turned, and altered and renovated; if she knows how purchases can be made to the best advantage, and understands the laying in of provisions, and how to make them go the farthest and last longest; if she appreciates the importance of system, order, tidiness, and the quiet management of children and servants, then she knows how to make a little heaven of home,—how to win her children from the street; how to keep her husband from the club-house, the gambling table, and the wine-cup. Such a family will be trained to social respectability, to business success, and to efficiency and usefulness in whatever positions may be allotted to them. It may be safe to say, that not one girl in ten in our large towns and cities enters married life who has learned to bake a loaf of bread, to purchase a roast, to dust a painting, to sweep a carpet, or to cut and fit and make her own dress. How much the perfect knowledge of these things bears upon the thrift, the comfort, the health of families may be conjectured, but not calculated by figures. It would be an immeasurable advantage to make a beginning by attaching a kitchen to every girls' school in the nation, and have lessons given daily in the preparation of all the ordinary articles of food and drink for the table, and how to purchase them in the market to the best advantage, with the result of a large saving of money, an increase of comfort, and a higher health in every family in the land.

Butler County Oil.—There is great excitement at present, in our neighboring county of Butler, over the rich developments of oil recently made in its limits. Last week's Citizen says: "From all parts of our county where wells are drilling, we hear good news. The Fairview district is the centre of interest at present. All the wells there so far are a success. Several new strikes have been made since our last issue. About Millerstown several new wells have been commenced. One on the farm of Rudolph Barnhart and one on that of David Barnhart, are fairly under operation. The Jamison well on the Connoquenessing, we learn, still gives evidence of being a good one. It is not to the necessary depth as yet. The timbers, etc., for the contemplated well on Bonnie Brook, near the old Brinker mill, about four miles east of Butler, are upon the ground, and the work of drilling will soon be commenced. The wells drilling around Sunbury, we learn, are still progressing favorably. The fastened tools in the Thorn Creek Well, we believe, have not been removed as yet. An oil tank on Bear Creek, near the bridge, was struck by lightning on Wednesday last, and, with 800 barrels of oil was destroyed. It was with difficulty the bridge was saved.

Gunpowder.—A little sulphur, a little charcoal, and a little nitre, ground together, and we have that wonderful mixture which rules, for good or for evil, the destinies of men. When gunpowder is ignited, the solid is almost instantly converted into gas, which, were it fired under water, and the gas cooled down to the ordinary temperature of the air, would be found to occupy 900 times the space of the solid powder. Gases are, however, known to expand with an immense force when heated; and as the gases of gunpowder are, ordinarily projected at a red heat they are consequently greatly expanded, amounting it is estimated, to more than 2,500 times the volume of the powder burned; and it is here we see whence springs the power of projection of fire arms. Great as are the evils of wars, the use of gunpowder has shortened their duration from years to days.

Five Hundred Thousand.—500,000 Bottles of Green's August Flower has been sold in this State in three months. We only ask you to go to the drug stores of Hugo Andriessen, Beaver, S. Hannen, Rochester, or Gilliland & Kerr, New Brighton, Pa., and get a bottle free of charge, or a regular size at seventy-five cents. Every Bottle warranted, to cure Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint, Sick headache, Costiveness, Heartburn, Waterbrash, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Impure Blood, or deranged Stomach and liver. Use Dr. Boschee's German Syrup for consumption. nov29;1y.

Caution.—There are a great many extraordinary things in this world, but when a circular informs us that eleven ears of corn are grown on three stalks, and that 290 bushels of corn of this particular variety are grown on a little less than one acre of ground, we beg to be permitted to say that belief in such a story is asking a little too much of our credulity.

Cure for Felon.—Many persons are liable to extreme suffering from felons on the finger. The following prescription is recommended as a cure for the distressing ailment: Take common rock salt, such as is used for salting down pork or beef, dry it in an oven, then pound it fine and mix with spirits of turpentine in equal parts. Put it on a rag and wrap it around the part affected and as it gets dry put on more, and in twenty-four hours you are cured—the felon is dead.

Strangely do some people talk of "getting over" a great sorrow; overleaping it, passing it by, thrusting it into oblivion. Not so. Not one ever does that—at least no nature which can be touched by the feeling of grief at all. The only way is to pass through the ocean of affliction solemnly, slowly, with humility and faith, as the Israelites passed through the sea. Then its very waves of misery will divide and become to us a wall on the right side and on the left, until the gulf narrows and narrows before our eyes.

Killed by Lightning.—About 11 o'clock a. m. on Sunday last John Calon was struck by lightning and instantly killed while standing in the back door of a building in the west end of Lawrenceburg, Armstrong county. He was a man apparently about 23 or 24 years of age. About one week previous to the fatal occurrence he was married to one of the occupants of the house in which his earthly career was so suddenly terminated. A number of females were in the building at the time, some of whom were shocked, but no one was seriously injured.

Grace Greenwood writes from California in praise of the mud baths at the Geyser Springs, 1,690 feet above the sea level. Theodore Tilton is curious to know if Grace herself tried the process, declaring he would go across the Continent to see Grace in a mud pickle. Was Tilton ever a cruel boy who went about kicking off the heads of poor frogs found frozen up in the mud? There's a suggestion of mischief in such far-reaching curiosity. Chignons, at least, would hardly be safe topping off an intellectual knob in such a tempting situation.

W. Beuchling in the Diamond, Rochester, is receiving pure and fresh drugs every week from the east. He will sell to his patrons nothing but the purest articles and ask the people only to buy once and they will be satisfied with both quality and price. His stock of patent medicines is very complete. Physicians prescriptions carefully prepared at all hours. je26;3w

Newspapers.—Horace Greeley thus hits the nail on the head: "It is strange how closely men read the papers. We never say anything that anybody don't like, but we soon hear of it. If, however, once in a while we happen to say a good thing, we never hear of that; nobody seems to notice that. We may pay some man a hundred compliments and give him a dozen puffs, and he takes it all as a tribute to his greatness, and he never thinks of it; never thinks it does him any good. But if we happen to say things this man don't like, or something that he imagines is a reflection on him or his character, see how quick he flares up and gets mad about it. All our evils are duly charged to us, but we never apparently, get any credit for what good we do.

Postal Changes.—The new postal law makes many changes of general interest in existing postal regulations. The most important is the authorization of the one cent postal cards for correspondence or for printed matter, similar to those which were introduced in Great Britain some years since. The price of the card and stamp will be one cent, although if a card manufactured by private parties, and not by the Government, is used, the regular three cent postage will be charged. The postage on circulars, newspapers, &c., which under the law was two cents for every four ounces or less, is now one cent for every two ounces or less. The change is now in force, the law being immediate in its effect; but the Postmaster General, in the absence of a certified copy of the law as passed, is as yet unable to issue any instructions to the postmasters throughout the country in relation to the postal card system.

Raspberries.—Comparatively few people ever eat a really good raspberry. To have this delicious fruit in perfection you must raise it in your own garden and take a little pains with it. We do not now propose to go into the general subject of planting, pruning, and managing raspberries, but simply to throw out a few hints that may be of practical value at the present time.

Raspberries require very rich land, and it is not too late to fork in some well-rotted manure between the rows. If this cannot be obtained, sow about three pounds of some good artificial manure to the square rod, and work it into the soil with a pronged hoe. A spade should never be used among raspberries. Keep the ground as clean and mellow as possible. Weeds pump up large quantities of water out of the soil. Suffer none to grow. And remember that a raspberry sucker that is not needed is simply a weed, and should be treated accordingly. You want four strong suckers to each plant to form canes for next year. All the rest, unless needed to form new beds, should be killed as soon as they show themselves. This is a very important point in raising large, delicious raspberries. As dry weather approaches, the land having been repeatedly stirred to kill weeds, mulch the ground thickly with the clippings of the lawn or other material, to prevent the evaporation of moisture.—Agriculturist.

Old Maids Good and Amiable.—A quaint and gallant writer of some fifty years ago, says;—"I love an old maid—I do not speak of an individual, but of the species—I use the singular number, as speaking of a singularity in humanity. An old maid is not merely an antiquarian, she is an antiquity; not merely a record of the past, but of the very past itself, she has escaped a great change, and sympathises not in the ordinary mutations of mortality. She inhabits a little eternity of her own. She is Miss from the beginning of the chapter to the end. I do not like to hear them called Mistress, as is sometimes the practice, for that looks and sounds like the resignation of despair, a voluntary extinction of hope. I do not know whether marriages are made in heaven: some people say they are, but I am almost sure old maids are. There is something about them that is not of earth, earthly. They are spectators of the world, not adventurers or ramblers; perhaps guardians; we say nothing of tattlers. They are predestinated to be what they are. They owe not the singularity of their condition to any lack of beauty, wisdom, wit, or good temper; there is no accounting for it but on the principle of fatality. I have known many old maids, and of all not one that has not possessed as many good and amiable qualities as ninety and nine out of a hundred of my married acquaintances. Why, then are they single? It is their fate!

Green apples and unripe fruit will soon appear on our streets, and as a natural consequence, obituary notices about "we had a little one," will become more plentiful. But nevertheless, the sale of Mens', Youths', Boys' and Children's clothing goes on at the clothing store of S. & J. Snellenburg, New Brighton.

Soldiers' Orphans.—Special Inspection of the Schools.—A circular has just been issued from the Department of Schools in reference to the annual examination of schools in which soldiers' orphans receive instruction. The vacations this year will commence on Monday, July 22. Previous to that time the Superintendent and State officers will make the examinations. They have prepared a programme of visits from which we extract the following in regard to our own and neighboring schools.

Pittsburgh and Allegheny Orphan Asylum, Allegheny, Wednesday, July 3.

St. Paul's Orphan Home, Butler, Friday, July 5.

Episcopal Church Home, Pittsburgh, Saturday, July 6, a. m.

Home of the Friendless, Allegheny, Saturday, July 6 a., m.

At Phillipsburg, Beaver county, Wednesday, July 17.

At Mercer, Mercer county, Friday July 8.

Inspector Cornforth will attend—

At Uniontown, Fayette county, Monday, July 8.

At Dayton, Armstrong county, Wednesday, July 10.

At Titusville, Crawford county, Friday, July 12.

The examinations will commence daily at 9 a. m. and 2 p. m.

Mrs. E. E. Hutter, lady Inspector, will attend a number of the examinations at the schools, and invitations to be present will be extended to his excellency, Governor Geary and the Board of State Charities.

An exhibition of industrial skill and a military drill will form a feature of the examinations. The examinations will be, as heretofore, public; and the authorities of the several schools are requested to invite specially the presence of directors and teachers of common schools; members of superintending committees, members of the Legislature, Judges of the courts, clergymen, editors and such other citizens of the several localities as have interested themselves in the work of educating our orphan children.

Servant Girls have many things to vex them. Their beaux are not always true, and a servant girl so used takes it out on her mistress. The pantry is kept locked, which implies distrust, or the employers belong to the wrong church, and it is very hard to live with infidels. It is written that one girl having been converted to the Baptist form of faith, insisted that those who hired her should also join that denomination. She made a square issue—baptism or another servant. They expostulated, pleading that it was winter, and they did not want to catch cold. It would be much better to wait till spring, and until house-keeping was over. She left.

Neighbor Rutan in Washington County.—The Washington Review & Examiner, gives the following account of a part of the proceedings in the Washington county Republican Convention held at Washington last week:

On motion, J. W. Douds, Wm. Kidd and Hon. John Farrer were appointed Senatorial Conferees; Able Evans, John E. Bell and Maj. John H. Ewing, Congressional Conferees, and D. S. Walker, James Elliott and T. P. Morgan Legislative Conferees.

At this point the Rutan faction attempted to overslaugh Mr. McDonald, the declared choice of the county for Senate, by the introduction of a resolution by W. A. Mickey, Esq., instructing the Senatorial conferees in case the nomination of McDonald should not be practical, to cast their votes for the next highest. This was virtually instructing them to vote for Mr. Rutan, and gave rise to quite a lengthy and heated discussion between M. L. A. McCracken Esq., and the mover of the resolution. This discussion developed an undercurrent of bitter opposition to Mr. Rutan. Both speakers made use of quite strong language in regard to the other, and there was a general raking up of the old sores made three years ago when the Washington county Radicals were sold out to Mr. Rutan.

Mr. McCracken was was willing to trust the conferees without instructing them. He said it was well known that Mr. Rutan was obnoxious to a large number of the Republicans of the district and that his nomination would be a misfortune. The resolution was nothing but a piece of treachery to pave the way for "laying out" Mr. McDonald. That this was not the first time that Washington county had been sold out, and he hoped the convention would not sanction so transparent a trick.

Mr. Mickey understood why Mr. McCracken opposed Mr. Rutan, as a "burnt child dreads the fire." He hoped the motion would prevail.

Rev. A. R. Anderson, of Cecil, offered an amendment instructing the conferees, in case of the failure of Mr. McDonald, to vote for the candidate that would secure the greatest harmony.

The amendment was discussed by Messrs. Mickey and McCracken in a most bitter manner. Mr. McCracken said in reply to Mr. Mickey's fling that "a burnt child dreaded the fire," that he had been "burnt" three times by this man Rutan, and that he did not propose now to lend his support to the same kind of corruption and trickery that disgraced the Republican party at that time. Mr. Rutan had helped to keep Washington county in a strong Republican district, but for this he deserved no credit now as he had taken care to receive his pay in advance. At this point several members seeing where the discussion was leading, and fearing damaging revelations, called for "the question," when the amendment was voted down and the original resolution adopted.

Mr. McCracken, as chairman of the committee on resolutions, introduced a series of resolutions, which was passed by the few members still remaining, quite a number having become tired out by the long discussion, or scared out by fear of further "war in the wigwam." The convention finally adjourned, leaving some sore places that will not only injure the ticket nominated but take years to heal up.

The rumored death of Wilmot Brush, formerly of Sheakleyville, Mercer county, Pa., comes to us in details, testifying to his death, which occurred in Western Kansas, under the most horrible circumstances. Mr. Brush left the county about one year ago for the west, and on taking leave from some friends remarked in a jocular manner that he could and would make his way through the Indian country, as he intended to shoot the "red devils" down along his pathway. Remaining in Iowa and other Western States until about a month ago, he joined a party en route to the Rocky Mountains. While passing through Western Kansas they came upon an Indian camp, and whether provoked to the act or otherwise, Brush borrowed a gun from one of his party and shot an Indian squaw. Thereupon the Indians assembled and immediately surrounded the party, demanding as a hostage that the person who committed the outrage should be delivered into their hands for punishment. To save the lives of the whole party, Brush was given up and his comrades were compelled to stand by and witness his agonies while he was literally skinned alive. Of course death ensued while the act was being performed, although our informant states that signs of life were still visible after the gory work was ended.—Greenville Argus.

There are now four candidates for Congress in this District, viz: Wm. Henry, Dr. J. W. Wallace, Wm. S. Moore and Capt. J. B. Donley—one from each of the four counties comprising the [illegible] district. No time, we believe, has yet been agreed upon for a District conference.

Murder and Suicide.—On Monday evening of last week, the coroner of Washington county, Pa., held an inquest at Hamlin Station, on the Panhandle railroad, on the bodies of the two men killed near that place early on Sunday morning. John O'Donnell, the engineer of the locomotive that ran over the men, on his oath said that on Sunday morning, while he was running his engine to Dennison, with no cars attached, as he approached Hamlin's water-tank, the morning being very foggy, he observed an obstruction on the track; but not until it was too late to stop. At the first glimpse he obtained there appeared to be but one body on the track, but getting nearer he saw two men, one of whom raised himself upon his elbows, looked calmly at the swiftly approaching death, and then laid down again, his head over one rail and his feet extending across the other. The smallest man was struck first and rolled over several times, and becoming entangled in the machinery was dragged a considerable distance to the railway crossing, where it was left by the wheels of the engine in a terribly mangled condition. The head of the other man was cut off as though it had been severed by a knife, and both feet were taken off near the ankles. Otherwise the body was not mutilated. A pass book was found on the body of the smaller man, and it contained the name of Wm. M. Lloyd, with an order on somebody for two dollars, and a memorandum stating that payment had been refused. A ticket on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from Zanesville to Patakala was also found, and a passage ticket on the steamboat R. C. Gray, a comb, a short lead pencil, and all the pockets were full of shelled corn. The other man's clothes were searched, but nothing that could lead to his identification was found. The telegraph operator at Hamlin station testified that the men had called at his office during the night for a drink of water, saying that they were anxious to get to Pittsburgh as soon as possible. The inquest elicited a singular fact that gives rise to much speculation. Near where the men were killed a revolver was found, two chambers of which were empty, and bore evidence of recent discharge. Lloyd's body, although taken up immediately after the engine had left, was cold and indicated that life had been extinct for some time. It is generally supposed that the unknown man first shot and killed Lloyd, then laid his body across the rail and took his place beside it, calmly awaiting death. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death, exonerating Mr. O'Donnell, the engineer, from all blame.

Scolding.—Scolding is mostly a habit. There is not much meaning to it. It is often the result of nervousness, and an irritable condition of both mind and body. A person is tired, or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commence finding fault with everything and everybody in reach.

Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how one who indulges in it at all becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is an unreasonable and unreasoning habit. Persons who once get in the habit of scolding always find something to scold about. If there was nothing else, they would fall a-scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely dangerous habit. The constant rumbling of distant thunder, caterwauling [illegible] under one's window, would be less unpleasant.

The habit is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to affect all the members. If one of them begins always finding fault about something, or nothing, the others are apt very soon to take it up, and a very unnecessary bedlam is created.

People in the country more readily fall into the habit of scolding than people in town. We suppose it is because they have less to occupy and divert their attention. Women contract the habit more frequently than men. This may be because they live more in the house, in a confined and heated atmosphere, very trying to the nervous system and the health in general; and it may be, partly, that their natures are more susceptible, and their sensitiveness more easily wounded. Women are sometimes called divine, but a scolding woman never seems divine. But we will say no more on the subject, or some pretty creature may feel inclined to scold us for what we say about scolding.

Settled.—It will be seen by the notice of the proceedings of the Washington county Republican Convention, that the Convention has "settled" the nomination for State Senator in that district so far as in its power by instructing their Conferees to vote for J. S. Rutan esq., on second ballot. Should not this arrangement satisfy the Beaver County politicians for this year? And as Washington and Greene counties have furnished the Republican candidates and Representatives in Congress since this county has enjoyed that privilege, should they not concede us the Congressional candidate now?—Lawrence Journal.

Fatal Accident.—On Thursday night last, during a storm, Mr. Adam Dumbaugh, who was returning from Harmony to his home in Petersville, this county, came to his death by the upsetting of the wagon in which he was traveling. When found by Mr. Stephen McCormick of this place, the bed of the wagon was lying upon his neck, which was broken. Mr. Dumbaugh was an aged citizen and respectable farmer of our county, and his sudden loss has brought grief to a large number of relatives and acquaintances.—Butler Citizen.

Lemon Cake.—Two cups of flour, two of sugar, six eggs, six tablespoonfuls of butter, four of milk, two teaspoonfuls of cream tarter, sifted with the flour, and one teaspoonful of soda. Beat all well together, and bake in two loaves. For the jelly to use with it, take three fourths of a pound of sugar, one-fourth of a pound of butter, six eggs, the rind of three lemons grated, and the juice. Beat the sugar, butter and eggs thoroughly together, and set in a dish of hot water until heated, then add the grated lemon and juice; stir until thick enough, and quite smooth, then split the cake and put this jelly in while warm. It is very delicious.

The Monongahela Navigation Company design putting a chute in dam No. 1 this summer to facilitate the passage of coal. This "chute" is an entirely new thing, which was lately patented by Capt. John A. Wood of Pittsburgh. If the experiment proves profitable it will be adopted at all the dams on the river.

Punishment.—A gentleman who was a mighty hunter was plagued with a degenerate son, who manifested no great predilection for his father's pursuits. One day he exclaimed in the bitterness of his mortification "Curse me, Tom, if you're not gettin' perfectly worthless; you'll neither hunt nor fish. I'll be hanged if I don't send you to school."

Dedicatory Services.—On last Sabbath morning a very large audience assembled in the M. E. Church at this place to witness the dedicatory services of the new M. E. Church recently erected in Beaver. The audience was composed of a large number of the leading church members of all the various denominations of Beaver and vicinity. Bishop Simpson of the M. E. Church preached the morning sermon, which was listened to with marked attention by all present. After the discourse was ended a collection to pay off the church debt was taken up and about $6,800 was subscribed. This sum only lacked about three hundred dollars of paying its whole indebtedness, and was decidedly one of the most liberal subscriptions we ever witnessed. That we are not alone in this belief is evident from a remark we overheard on leaving the church: "When Beaver has a debt to pay it can give a head and shoulders in liquidating it above any country town I ever was in."

In the evening another large audience attended to hear a sermon by Rev. Dr. Newman of Washington City, at present the Chaplain of the U. S. Senate. It proved to be a very excellent discourse, after which another collection was taken up and the remaining $300 was raised with little or no effort. After it was announced that money sufficient to pay off every claim against the new building was raised, the Trustees of the Church were invited forward and the Church was formally dedicated to the worship of Almighty God, Bishop Simpson officiating, at the conclusion of which the benediction was pronounced by the Bishop and the large and attentive audience dispersed.

Dedication.—The German R. C. Church of Beaver Falls will be dedicated to the service of Almighty God, on July 4th prox. Bishop Domenec, of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, will officiate, assisted by the reverend clergy of the neighborhood. Such occasions are always impressive and solemn, but peculiarly so when conducted according to catholic ritual. The public are invited to attend.

Something About Women.—The Parson says that woman is always most restless under the most favorable conditions, and that there is no state in which she is really happy except that of change. I suppose this is the truth taught in what has been called the "Myth of the Garden." Woman is a perpetual revolution, and is that element in the world which continually destroys and re-creates. She is the experimenter and the suggester of new combinations. She has no belief in any law of eternal fitness of things. She is never even content with the arrangement of her own house. The only reason the Mistress could give, when she re-arranged her apartment, for hanging a picture in what seemed the most inappropriate place, was that it never had been there before. Woman has no respect for tradition, and because a thing is as it is, is sufficient reason for changing it. When she gets into law, as she has come into literature, we shall gain something in the destruction of all our vast and musty libraries of precedents, which now fetter our administration of individual justice. It is Mandeville's opinion that women are not so sentimental as men, and are not so easily touched with the unspoken poetry of nature; being less poetical and having less imagination, they are more fitted for practical affairs, and would make less failures in business. I have noticed the almost selfish passion for their flowers which old gardeners have, and their reluctance to part with a leaf or a blossom from their family. They love the flowers for themselves. A woman raises flowers for their use. She is destruction in a conservatory. She wants the flowers for her lover, for the sick, for the poor, for the Lord on Easter day, for the ornamentation of her house. She delights in the costly pleasure of sacrificing them. She never sees a flower but she has an intense but probably sinless desire to pick it.—From Warner's Back-Log Studies, in Scribner's for July.

Lawrence County, in the hands of the "ring" managers seems to be used as a kind of "make weight" to assist in the election of the Republican aspirants in the different districts to which they choose to attach her. At present she is USED to neutralize the Democratic vote of Greene county for Congress; and for State Senator she must be overslaught by the two counties, with each near twice her population and with proportionably more aspirants for office (if such thing can be). Thus we must "hew the wood and draw the water" year after year until a complimentary vote for personal advantage is about all our men can expect.—Lawrence Journal.

Female Diseases.—At the present day it is extremely rare to find a female who is entirely free from some one or other of the diseases peculiar to her sex. Go where you will, on the mountain top or in the valley, in the hamlet or in the city, among the rich or the lowly, there will be found very few females who are not laboring under physical affliction peculiar to womanhood.

The cause of this we will not undertake to explain here. The numerous applications made to us for relief during our twenty years' practice, have long since induced us to make especial study and investigation of these diseases, and their best method of cure. They are maladies of a peculiar character, and as a general thing they require a method of treatment entirely unlike that adopted for those common to both sexes. In fact, the very frequency and extent of female diseases in our midst, is evidence that the "common treatment" has not met with success, and shows that some more efficient course should be adopted.

We were long since convinced that local remedies and external appliances, bandages, &c., were mere palliatives for the time, and of no permanent value whatever, but oftimes injurious; and was the only hope course of medication

For the benefit of those who are afflicted with any disease peculiar to the sex, whether from a slight cold followed by a derangement and irregularity of the general system, which many times produces cough, expectoration, tightness of chest, difficult breathing, palpitation, &c., with all the symptoms of "going into a decline," or from any of the very many causes which produce such terrible suffering among women, as to make life a burden to them, we would say, that our remedies are selected and prepared with a special view towards these ends, and will give relief in all these kinds of cases, without needless exposure to indelicate examinations, or the wearing of disagreeable instruments or cumbrous appliances.

We have cured hundreds—yes, thousands—of cases by medical treatment alone, hundreds of whom we have never seen, but who only obtained their medicines after having sent to us their cases for examination.

Our remedies in these diseases are mild but effectual, and are such as we have found out to act in conformity with the laws of nature in regulating health; and from the success which has almost invariably crowned our efforts in these cases, we can promise, and do promise, a speedy cure in every case where a reasonable hope can be entertained.

For the benefit of those living at a distance laboring under Chronic Affections, and unable to attend in person, we would say; by sending us a vial of urine for examination, the necessary medicines can be sent them by express.

Temple of Honor.—The temperance men of Rochester and vicinity are about starting a Temple of Honor (a beneficial organization) in that Borough. Persons wishing to become charter members can do so by applying immediately at H. B. Biesels tin store, Rochester, Pa., and signing application.—Temperance applicants must be eighteen years old.

The Fourth of July has been a national holiday since the memorable Declaration of Independence. It has been the custom in most country places to give the printers the benefit of relaxation during the week subsequent to and inclusive of that day. The Beaver county papers have agreed to observe this rule and suspend publication during that time; hence no Argus will appear on Wednesday of the week following that of the Fourth of July. Advertisers must govern themselves accordingly

Time and enlightened experience have shown that certain substances formerly used and relied on in medical practice, are unnecessary and dangerous; yet some of these substances have found their way into medical compounds. Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters, however, contain nothing injurious, being composed exclusively of vegetable substances from California. For all disorders of the liver, kidneys, bladder, skin, and digestive organs, and for purifying the blood, they are the most wonderful remedy known.

Selling Out at Cost.—Persons desiring to buy goods, at cost can do so by calling at Mr. John Conway's in Rochester Pa. He is closing out his entire stock with a view of engaging in another business, and for some time, in the future, therefore, bargains can be had by calling at his store.

At the request of a number of Justices of the Peace in this county, we re-publish the act giving criminal jurisdiction to Justices of the Peace, also the supplement extending the same to Beaver county. Justices are reminded that the sections as numbered below refer to the Pamphlet Laws of 1861:

AN ACT TO CHANGE THE MODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS IN ERIE AND UNION COUNTIES.

SECTION 1: Be it enacted, &c., That the several Justices of the Peace of the county of Erie and Union, be and are hereby authorized to hold monthly courts, with jurisdiction to hear and determine, in the manner hereinafter provided, the several offences and misdemeanors mentioned in the thirtieth, thirty-first, forty-fourth, forty-sixth, sixty-ninth, seventy-second, ninety-seventh, one hundred and third, one hundred and twelfth, one hundred and fortieth, one hundred and forty-eighth, one hundred and fifty-second sections of the act of the thirty-first day of March, Anno Domini one housand eight hundred and sixty, entitled "An act to consolidate, revise and amend the penal laws of this commonwealth."

SEC. 2. That whenever any person shall be brought before a justice on a warrant issued by said justice, founded on the oath or information of the party aggrieved, the complaint or information shall be fully read aloud in the hearing of the defendant or party accused; and if the defendant shall plead guilty to the charge against him, the justice shall proceed to inquire into the circumstances of the case, so far as he shall think best for a proper understanding of the defendant's guilt, and shall proceed to pass sentence upon the defendant, which sentence shall have the full force and effect of a sentence pronounced by the court of quarter session in like cases, and the defendant shall be committed to the jail of the county until the sentence be complied with.

SEC. 3. If the defendant shall plead not guilty to the offense charged, and shall at the same time signify his determination to be tried by a jury of six, before the said justice, the justice shall make an entry to that effect upon his docket, and the defendant shall then enter into recognizance with good and sufficient surety or sureties, conditioned for his appearance before the said justice, at the ensuing monthly session, and not to depart without leave until discharged according to law; but if the defendant shall not enter into such recognizance as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the constable to keep him or her safely, until duly discharged by course of law, and in either case the justice shall proceed to the trial of the cause, in the manner pointed out in the following sections of this act; but if the defendant shall not signify his or her determination to be tried before said justice, the justice shall proceed with the said defendant as if this act had not been passed.

SEC. 4. Whenever a defendant shall signify his or her determination to be tried by a jury of six, before the justice of the peace, for any of the offences of which a justice of the peace shall have jurisdiction according to the provisions of the first section of this act, in the manner pointed out in the foregoing section, the said justice upon such demand, is hereby required to continue the cause to the ensuing monthly court, and to issue a venire, directed to any constable of the proper borough, city, or township, where the said cause is to be tried, commanding him to summon six good and lawful men, citizens of said township, city, or borough, and having the qualifications of electors therein, who shall be in nowise of kin to either defendant or complainant, nor in any manner interested, who shall be chosen as follows, to wit: The justice shall write in a pannel the names of eighteen persons, from which the defendant or his agent or attorney shall strike one name, the complainant or prosecutor one, and so on alternately until each shall have stricken six names; and the remaining six shall constitute the jury, to be and appear before such justice at the time to which said case shall have been adjourned, to serve as a jury for the trial of such cause: Provided, that in case either party shall neglect or refuse to aid in striking the jury as aforesaid, the justice shall strike the same in behalf of such party.

SEC. 5. That it shall be the duty of such constable to make service of said venire, and to return the same with the names of the persons by him summoned, at the time appointed for the trial of the cause.

SEC. 6. That it shall be the further duty of such constable, to be in attendance on said court, at the time appointed for said trial, and during the progress of the same; and if by reason of challenge for cause, sickness or other disability, the persons whose names shall be returned by the venire, or any of them, shall not be empanneled as jurors, the said constable shall fill the panel from the bystanders, as is done by the Sheriffs, in the court of common pleas; and the said constable shall be allowed for his attendance on said court, one dollar per day, to be taxed in the bill of costs; and at the close of the trial the jury shall be conducted by the constable to some private and convenient place where they may deliberately and without interruption consult upon their verdict.

SEC. 7. That the competence and credibility of witnesses, the form of the oath to the jurors and witnesses, and the constable who shall wait upon the jury, shall be the same as in the trial of the same offences in the court of quarter sessions, and the jury shall have the same jurisdiction and control over the payment of costs; Provided, That the county shall in no case be liable for either the prosecutor's or the defendant's bill of costs; and the justice, in case the jury shall, by their verdict, direct that the prosecutor or the defendant shall pay the whole or any part of the costs, shall proceed to pass sentence accordingly, and the party who shall be thus sentenced, shall be committed until the sentence be complied with.

SEC. 8. That [illegible] conclusive upon all [illegible] of fact involved therein, and no writ of certiorari or of error or appeal, shall be allowed for the review of such case of fact so tried by the jury, and in case the proceedings shall be removed to a higher court upon certiorari or otherwise, the district attorney shall thereafter conduct the proceedings in behalf of the commonwealth, and his fees shall be the same as upon the indictments formed by the grand jury; to be taxed and paid as the other costs of the case; and if the proceedings shall be reversed on any certiorari or writ of error, sued out on behalf of the defendant, on account of any defect in the statement of the offence with which the party is charged, the court shall send the proceedings back to the justice for a new trial, and direct the district attorney and sworn to by the prosecutor, and thereupon the defendant shall be required to enter his plea to such amended information or accusation, and thereupon the new trial shall proceed before the justice as on the former meaning.

SEC. 9. That whenever the jury shall render a verdict of guilty, the justice shall proceed to pass sentence upon the defendant according to law, and with the like effect as if the defendant had plead guilty or then convicted in the court of quarter sesions; and any sentence of imprisonment which may be imposed, shall only be inflicted in the jail of the proper county; and all the fines imposed shall be collected and paid into the school fund of the school district in which the offence was committed, and it shall be the duty of the justice to receive the amount of the fine and pay it into the treasury of the proper district, and any neglect to pay the same as aforesaid shall be considered a misdemeanor in office.

SEC. 10. That in all cases which shall be tried by a jury under the provisions of this act, the justice of the peace trying the same shall be entitled to a fee of two dollars, and each juror shall be entitled to fifty cents per day, to be taxed as costs.

SEC. 11. That when any person shall be summoned to attend as a juror, and shall fail to attend, at the time and place specified in the venire, having no reasonable excuse to assign for such a failure every such person shall be fined in any sum not exceeding ten dollars, for which fine the justice of the peace shall render judgment in the name of the commonwealth, and issue execution therefor, and when collected shall pay the same into the township, borough or city school treasury, for the use of the common schools therein.

WHIPPING IN VIRGINIA.

Exercise of the Worst Relic of Barbarism and Slavery—Two Negroes Receive Twenty Stripes Each—How the Operation was Performed—Stoical Indifference of the Offenders—An Ex-Hangman Applies the Lash.

A Richmond, Va., correspondent of the New York Herald, writing of date June 15th, gives the following account of the whipping of two negroes in the yard of the jail attached to Henrico county Court House: Two poor degraded negroes were subjected to the punishment of the lash at the whipping post, for a small theft committed in the county. The names of the victims to this relic of mediæval barbarity and torture were B. Mosely and Benjamin King, both honored names among the chivalry of old Virginia. They were sentenced yesterday by the Court presided over by Judge Minor, to receive twenty lashes each on the bare back, well laid on. The morning papers announced that the whipping would take place at ten o'clock. Your correspondent never having witnessed the operations of that peculiar institution, the whipping post, was on hand at the hour and requested permission to witness the revolting spectacle, which was granted without hesitation. When I reached the Court House I found the Judge there, surrounded by some half dozen deputy sheriffs and Court House loiterers, such as are always to be found in the vicinity of every temple of justice in the land, from Maine to Texas. Judge Minor is a very youthful and handsome man, with an empty sleeve, having lost an arm in the "Lost Cause." He was examining the scourge which had been prepared for the occasion, and discussing its merits. It was a simple strap of heavy harness leather, about two feet long and two inches wide. It was nailed into a small pine handle. This was the whip.

Deputy Sheriff Walsh was selected to execute the sentence of the law in this case. There were only six spectators in all, and they were members of the press and officers of the court. The outer iron gate was unlocked and we entered the inner enclosure of the jail. Deputy Walsh carried the strap, the instrument of torture, while another had two pairs of handcuffs, and a third stood by to count the blows. The door of the cell, an iron grating, was thrown open, and one of the negroes,

THE TALLEST WAS BROUGHT OUT.

He was clad in rags and horribly filthy. This was B. W. Mosely. He is about twenty-five years of age, over six feet in hight, powerfully built and strong and muscular. He had a dull and stupid countenance, semi idiotic in expression, and looked around with an air of stolid indifference. He was perfectly obedient to command, however, and although it was reported he declared that no white man should whip him he offered no resistance. Deputy Walsh took him up to the grated door and ordered him to put his hands through between the bars. This was the whipping-post—the substitute rather. They have a regular one in Chesterfield, the adjoining county. Mosely put his hands through, and they were secured by a pair of handcuffs. One of the deputies then said to him,

"JUST SHUT YOUR EYES AND GRIN, and you'll not feel it at all."

This deputy was really a kind hearted man, and really felt for the poor fellow. Indeed they were all full of sympathy, and did not at all relish the beastly business. The back was then bared from the shoulders.

"Ready," said Walsh, as he brandished the scourge. "Count the blows."

And the first fell with terrible force on the bare, black loins, turning them almost white. The poor victim squirmed and [illegible] in shrank, but [illegible] blow after blow fell [illegible] back. He counted them as fast as they came, as he writhed and seemed to be on the point of crying out when the twentieth was called and the deputy desisted. He had not whimpered, however, nor did he tremble in the least from first to last; but he evidently suffered the most intense agony. He was freed from the grating and allowed to put on his clothes.

OFFENDER NO. 2 IS STRIPPED

There was only a slight intermission in the performance, when the curtain was rung up for the next act. The other negro was brought out, this proved to be King. He was quite a dwarf in stature, apparently less than five feet high, and about twenty-five years of age; compactly built, stout, and with very thick heavy African lips. His countenance seemed equally idiotic in expression. He did not speak a word, but put his hands between the bars and allowed them to be fastened with the handcuffs. His back was bared in the manner before described, and the operation began. The little fellow bore it well, but his face was horribly contracted, the twenty lashes being well laid on. The little one was then cast loose, looking very sheepish, and made some remark, at which his companion laughed, and the show being over for the day, we left the jail yard.

This is the first case of the kind in Richmond since the revival of the whipping post. Judge Minor thinks it a humane way to deal with small offenders, but others say it is not only cruel and barbarous, but disgusting, if not ridiculous. There is something solemn and impressive about an execution either by hanging or shooting, but the whipping post has not one redeeming quality. The Judge said it was harvest time, and to send them to jail would be to deprive the farmers of their assistance in the field. It may become common here, but it cannot fail to have a brutalizing effect upon those who witness it or those who inflict the degrading punishment. It is surprising that Virginia, which boasts the oldest and best civilization in the United States, should cling to this barbarous custom of the days of slavery. She seems to be fond of her relics, no matter how repugnant they may be to Christianity and civilization.

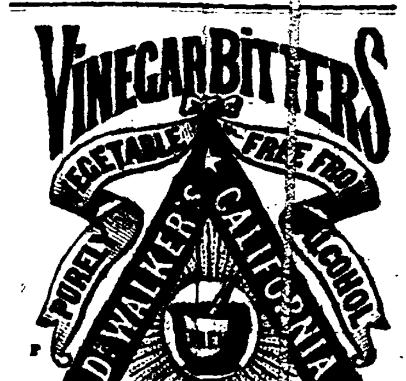
VINEGAR BITTERS



Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and a Life-giving Principle, a Perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition, enriching it, refreshing and invigorating both mind and body. They are easy of administration, prompt in their action, certain in their results, safe and reliable in all forms of disease.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, and in Bilious Diseases.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Grateful thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist: There is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Mechanical Diseases. Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, will be subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS once or twice a week, as a Preventive.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goiter, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tubercular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic and Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

The Aperient and mild Laxative properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are the best safe-guard in all cases of eruptions and malignant fevers, their balsamic, healing, and soothing properties protect the humors of the fauces. Their Sedative properties allay pain in the nervous system, stomach, and bowels, either from inflammation, wind, colic, cramps, etc. Their Counter-Irritant influence extends throughout the system. Their Anti-Bilious properties stimulate the liver, in the secretion of bile, and its discharges through the biliary ducts, and are superior to all remedial agents, for the cure of Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, etc.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

Directions.—Take of the Bitters on going to bed at night from a half to one and one-half wine-glassfull. Eat good nourishing food, such as beef-steak, mutton chop, venison, roast beef, and vegetables, and take out-door exercise. They are composed of purely vegetable ingredients, and contain no spirit. This Cut illustrates the manner of Using

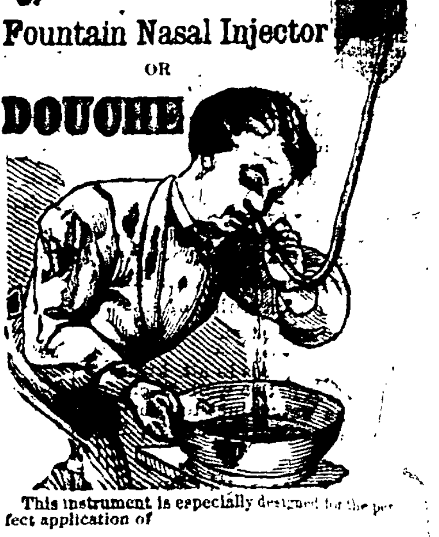
DR. PIERCE'S

Fountain Nasal Injector

OR

DOUCHE



This instrument is especially designed for the perfect application of

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY.

It is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried high up and perfectly applied to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge generally proceeds. The want of success in treating Catarrh heretofore has arisen largely from the impossibility of applying remedies to these cavities and chambers by any of the ordinary methods. This obstacle in the way of effecting cures is entirely overcome by the invention of the Douche. In using this instrument, the Fluid is carried by its own weight, (no snuffing, forcing or pumping being required,) up one nostril in a full gently flowing stream to the highest portion of the nasal passages, passes into and thoroughly cleanses all the tubes and chambers connected therewith, and flows out of the opposite nostril. Its use is pleasant, and so simple that a child can understand it. Full and explicit directions accompany each instrument. When used with this instrument, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications.

Symptoms of Catarrh. Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucus, purulent, offensive, &c. In others a dryness, dry, watery, weak or inflamed eyes, stopping up or obstruction of nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear throat, ulcerations, scabs from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, &c. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

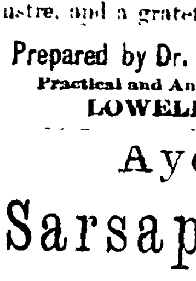
Ayer's

Sarsaparilla



Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.
